Wounded Gangster Attacked In Hospital By Gunmen

USES HIDDEN REVOLVER TO BATTLE FOES

Gained Entrance in Hospital on Plea He Was Victim of Accident

Chicago —(P)—Frank McElrane, whom gangland knows as its "toughest," was shot three times, probably fatally, by enemies last night as he already lay wounded on his bed in a private hospital room.

With his right leg in a cast and swung high with a revolver, McElrane grabbed a revolver from beneath his pillow and fired back at his assailants as they fled into the corridor.

One of the assailants' bullets pierced McElrane's back; another his wrist and a third lodged in the right thigh.

As "Charles Miller," McElrane gained entrance to the hospital Jan. 23, for treatment of a bullet wound which he said he accidentally inflicted.

A search by the nurse was out of the room last night, the assailants quietly slipped in. A fusillade broke the quietness, followed by screams of patients. McElrane's nurse, returning hurriedly down the corridor, found the door open and her patient groaning on the bed.

Police were called, but McElrane maintained he was "killed," until recognized by detectives.

A search revealed the gangster's revolver under the pillow. It had been emptied, and bullet pits on the wall of the corridor opposite the door to McElrane's room indicated the battle he waged with his attackers.

ALLIED WITH GANGS
Although once a partner in the flourishing south side beer business of Joe Salts, McElrane has been known of late as an ally of "Spike" O'Donnell and his gang.

This change of associates, police believe, was responsible for what they held was an attempt on his life Jan. 28. Failing then, the rivals apparently believed they had McElrane at their mercy in his hospital room but they did not reckon with the revolver McElrane had hidden beneath his pillow.

Questioned in numerous slayings, McElrane was tried only once for murder in 1927, and then was acquitted of killing Thaddeus Fancher, a Crown Point, Ind., attorney in a roadside brawl.

The same year while still allied with Salts, McElrane was dismissed on charges involving the slaying of three members of the O'Donnell gang.

Gangland custom always has decreed a private room when hospital care is needed, a room far away from strategic aids to enemies such as fire escapes. McElrane's room was one of such.

In the past, the late Hymie Weiss and the Genna Brothers, in the hospital for treatment of gangland wounds, insisted on rooms out of the range of rival guns. Weiss so feared an attack that he first asked hospital authorities for a room without windows.

Earlier in the night Joseph Fallon, gunman and the died with police, suffered in a gun fight with police, in which he shot and killed Patrolman John J. Ryan, a police hero.

HORSEMEN REVISING TEXTBOOKS FOR ARMY

Washington —(P)—Why rising to the trot or "posting" protects both a horse and the rider, how to ride a horse over hurdles with aplomb and why one should lean on a horse's neck when sliding down a steep embankment will be explained in the revised army textbooks on equestrian matters.

The war department announced today that for two months a board composed of the outstanding horsemen of the cavalry has been in daily session, revising the textbooks.

Brigadier General W. C. Short, dean of American army equestrians, headed the board, which discussed horsemanship from a strictly military viewpoint, as well as from the standpoint of cross-country riding, hunting, steeplechase, and horse show jumping.

The board has included the various phases of horsemanship as taught for the last several years at the cavalry school, Fort Riley, Kas., where the best features were combined from a survey of methods developed at the French and Italian schools and by the American cowboy.

PHONES WILL HELP DEAF AT "TALKIES"

New York Theatre Is Installing Theaterphone System

BY EILEEN CREELMAN
New York —(CPA)—Thomas Edison is only one of many thousands of deaf people whose pleasure in the movies has been spoiled by the coming of sound films. Although this has been brought often enough to their attention, producers have been unable to do anything about it.

Now the Warner brothers, who introduced vitaphone to the industry, are equipping their theatres with devices enabling the deaf and hard of hearing to enjoy talking pictures.

A theaterphone system, designed by Charles H. Lehman, is being installed in the local Warner theatre and others will be equipped later.

In various sections of the theatre, arms of certain designated seats will carry a small box to which a specially designed earpiece may be plugged. A movable button on the handle of the earpiece makes it possible for the user to regulate the volume of sound.

Louise Dresser, in discussing a few days ago the sorrow that the talkies had brought upon the deaf, remarked:

"My mother, who used to find such delight in silent pictures, now spends most of her time hunting a theatre still untried. They become over each year. Since she does not hear well, my mother cannot enjoy talkies. I think that eventually, because there are so many thousands of deaf people in the United States, each city will have at least one theatre where only silent films are shown."

Poison Booze Kills Boy And Blinds Girl In West

Los Angeles —(P)—The death of one 16-year-old high school student, the blinding of a 17-year-old girl and the serious illness of two other boys in the metropolitan area were laid to poison liquor today.

Police began a search for "a 13-year-old bootlegger" as the result of the story of the five youngsters who survived a joy ride and drinking party in an automobile truck here Sunday night. The sixth member of the party, Donald Ashworth, 16, died in the truck before a hospital could be reached.

Charles Post, and Paul Phelps, each 17, who were in the party, were taken to a hospital in a serious condition. The others who went on the joy ride, Lyle Said, 17, Anabelle Miller, 15, and Evelyn Compton, 15, said they did not partake of the liquor. They were held at juvenile hall to aid in the search for the "boy bootlegger."

The students said they purchased a gallon of liquor at a wayside station. The girls in the party asserted they tried to dissuade the boys from drinking. They were uncertain whether they could locate the house at which the liquor was bought but were sure they could identify the seller.

At Norwalk, a suburb, Marie Bent, 17, was found staggering from a house and muttering, "he dragged me but I got away." L. T. Eubanks, 19-year-old high school student and schoolmate of Miss Bent, was accused by her of having given her

WHEN A CHILD IS FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET

Colic, gas, sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear, give Baby a spoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, cools, children's ailments. Children take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant-tasting.

Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book, "Useful Information." Address: The Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y. It will be sent FREE.

German Plane Service To Turkey And South America

Berlin —(P)—South America will be 10 days nearer Turkey before summer.

This new shrinkage of the world map will be effected as a result of negotiations already completed between the German Lufthansa, the Turkish government, various railroad and steamship lines and the Lufthansa-controlled Condor Air syndicate of South America.

No passengers will be carried, either on the Berlin-Angora or Berlin-Canary islands route, until smooth operation of the mail lines over a considerable period has demonstrated the time is ripe. Ultimately, of course, the plan is not only to carry passengers but to offer trans-Atlantic Zeppelin service as part of the 8,000-mile trip. This development is not expected during 1930.

Mail trains will be used for several of the night stretches, the first leg of the Berlin-Canary islands route, for example, will be covered at night by train, planes picking up the mail at Stuttgart next morning and flying it to Barcelona and thence to the islands to connect with steamers.

Harry Nelson, route 1, Neenah, is at Theda Clark hospital for treatment.

CONFESSED KILLER PUZZLING POLICE AND PSYCHIATRISTS

But Authorities Claim Baker Is Legally Sane and Knows Right, Wrong

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press

New York—Psychiatrists and police are taking turns questioning James Baker of Detroit, the blond youth with the smile of a wayward school boy and the fists and sinews of a hard-rock man, who says he has killed ten men.

Both groups of inquirers find plenty to excite their professional curiosity. He is, of course, made to order for a psychiatrist, with his tale of cyanide and other killings, two of which confessions have been substantiated by police records.

He is a somewhat more baffling problem to the police. Just now he got a revolver into the waist band of his trousers and a razor-edged hunting knife into his sock, as he was taken from the Detroit prison to the Rainbow Express for New York, is something to make S. S. Van Dine quit right in the middle of a chapter and forfeit all syndicate and movie returns.

PLAYS LONE GAME
The fact that Baker is a lone wolf makes it all the more puzzling, say the police. If he were an eminent gangster, it would be much easier to explain, as he would be quite apt to make a business organization ready to help in emergencies of this kind. But everything about "Texas Jim Baker" indicates that he is just a ham-handed ranch boy who, for some reason of his own took up killing as a side-line more for sport than business.

So far as the psychiatrists are concerned, it is indicated that he will go down in the books as a "hypo-emotionalized" case.

Regardless of what the psychologists find, District Attorney Crain, of New York, is convinced that Baker is legally sane and that he knows right from wrong. While Baker is held on a charge of having stolen $30 from one of the truckmen at the Guzenheim laboratory, where he killed Henry Gav, on the night of Dec. 27, 1928, he will be indicted on a murder charge Tuesday. His de-Healthiest!

"My little daughter is just about the healthiest girl I know," says Mrs. Ray Shiba, 1855 Fifteenth St., Milwaukee. "And I want to give credit where it is due."

Ruth was constipated several years ago and I gave her California Fig Syrup. It helped her so wonderfully that I have used it ever since for all her upsets or colds. It has kept her strong, energetic, rugged.

Children suffer when bowels aren't regular. Breath becomes fetid; tongue coated; eyes dull. When these symptoms are neglected, biliousness, feverishness, lack of appetite invariably follow.

The first dose of California Fig Syrup relieves these symptoms and activates sluggish bowels. Successive doses help tone and strengthen weak bowels; improve appetite; encourage digestion and assimilation. Try it with a billious, headachy, constipated child and see how it helps! The pure vegetable product, endorsed by doctors for 35 years, always bears the name California. So look for it when buying.

Boy Scout Financial Campaign Is Postponed One Week

ANNUAL DRIVE FOR FUNDS TO OPEN MARCH 10

Drive Is Put Off to Permit Workers to Hear President Talk

The 1930 financial campaign of valley council of boy scouts for $10,000, $5,000 to be solicited in Appleton and the remainder in Neenah, Menasha and other affiliated cities, has been postponed from March 3 to 6 until March 10 to 14, it was announced Tuesday by F. N. Belanger, general chairman in charge of the drive.

It was postponed for a week so that on Monday night, March 10, at the opening campaign dinner, workers will be able to hear President Hoover speak on boy scouting from the Willard hotel, Washington, D. C. over a network of National and Columbia broadcasting stations, according to Mr. Belanger. Mr. Hoover's speech will take the place of the opening campaign talk here.

The dinner party at the Willard hotel is being staged in observance of the twentieth anniversary of scouting in America, and is being sponsored by Mr. Hoover, Charles Curtis, vice president of the United States; Nicholas Longworth, worth, speaker of the house of representatives; Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of treasury; Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war; Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of interior; Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture; Robert P. Lamont, secretary of commerce; James B. Davis, secretary of labor; John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross; William Green, president of American Federation of Labor, and William Butterworth, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

It is expected 800 prominent businessmen and scout council heads from throughout the country will be present at the dinner. The broadcast will start at 8 o'clock, central standard time. Between 80 and 90 stations will broadcast the talk. Special receiving apparatus will be installed at the place where the opening dinner is to be held.

Scout leaders and troop committees from Neenah, Menasha, Kaukauna, Seymour, New London, Clintonville and other cities affiliated with the valley council will be invited to the opening dinner.

ONLY ONE SIXTH OF JAPAN LAND ARABLE

Volcanic Upheavals Left Only 15 Per Cent of Area for Farming

Tokyo.—(AP)—Only 15 per cent of the area of Japan is capable of cultivation, says a land survey by the government bureau of statistics. In this respect, the report states, Japan is less favored than any other first class nation. The United States already has 18 per cent of its great expanse under cultivation, England tills 23 per cent of her acreage, France 41 per cent, Germany 44 per cent and Denmark 50 per cent.

The volcanic upheavals which formed the Japanese islands and made their steep mountains, rocky shores and rushing streams among the most picturesque in the world, left little space that could be farmed profitably by the prolific race that came to inhabit them. Eighty-five per cent of the surface is too rough or too thoroughly impregnated with volcanic cinders to yield rice, the staple food of the people, or the harder upland grains which eke out the national bill of fare.

The gentleness of the Japanese food and population problem is increasing, for although industrialization is enabling the country to support more people, the population grows by 900,000 annually.

Japan's cultivated acres total 14,450,000 of which 7,821,000 are devoted to rice paddies. The other 6,629,000 acres are in dry field crops, with 70 per cent devoted to wheat, barley and rape, 25 per cent to mulberry trees for nourishment of silk worms, and five per cent to tea and fruits.

APOLLO DUO PLAYS AT ROOSEVELT SCHOOL

Adept in the art of playing many instruments, some two at a time, the Apollo Duo, made up of Arthur and Alta Wells, presented a musical program at Roosevelt junior high school Monday evening. The performance, the last of the year's lyceum series, was attended by about 450 persons.

Mr. Wells played the piano and a small saxophone, and Mrs. Wells alternated between two saxophones, a banjo, two steel guitars and a bassoon. A specialty number presented the two performers in a quartet, each one playing two instruments. The program included dialogues, readings and popular and classical music, both vocal and instrumental.

Smoot May Not Give Examples Of "Too Vulgar" Passages In Book Battle

Washington.—(AP)—The senate, after all, may settle its controversy over book censorship without ever sampling the concoctions Senator Smoot of Utah, has selected as examples of what should be barred from America's literary diet.

Leaders of opposing forces on the issue of whether customs, officials should act as dictators in control of the foreign book menu today stood ready for a preliminary battle to decide whether the senate should meet behind closed doors to discuss the question.

Senator Cutting of New Mexico, announced he would wage a fight against executive session for consideration of the salacious passages Smoot has picked from the books in question.

"Everybody knows there are indecent books," Cutting said, "but discussing them behind closed doors is no way to handle the question."

Smoot, however, is determined to have an executive session to read passages "too vulgar" to be pointed to openly. He said, in fact, that they were so vulgar, he would not read them unless his colleagues decided to hear them in private.

Cut conflict began when Cutting proposed revision of the present tariff law to void its provision for exclusion of indecent and obscene foreign books. Under the present law customs officers administered the censorship. The senate accepted Cutting's proposal by a narrow margin.

Leading a demand for another vote on the issue, Smoot asked the treasury for books excluded under the present law. He proposes to read passages from them to prove his contention that censorship is necessary for the nation's welfare.

Unmoved by a suggestion that "expurgating shears" should begin their snip-snapping in brochures and other imported documents of the Mormon church, Smoot said he "certainly would demand another vote and an executive session preceding it." He met the suggestion regarding Mormon literature with a shrug and a reference to its source.

"Everybody knows the people's legislative service," Smoot said he had examined books sent him by the treasury, marking passages "too vulgar" for open repetition.

"I will read them," he added, "but only in executive session."

"Asserting that the material is 'irrelevant," Cutting said he would oppose the executive session on the ground that the fundamental issue was not the character of the books, but the manner of dealing with them.

"The senate hasn't gone into executive session to conduct legislative business since the 1790's," Cutting continued, "and this is no time to do it."

Proposing that book censorship should be "left to the states and the courts," he insisted that action against salacious literature should be initiated through arrests within the states.

It may be, as McKellar says, that Great Britain's cancelling of two new cruisers is so much misleading "balderdash" and "claptrap" despite its interpretation as a pleasant gesture on Premier Ramsay MacDonald's part during the naval arms limitation conference.

If so—and those be harsh words—we two countries would appear about even. For it may be recalled that President Hoover once undertook to make a cruiser gesture himself.

McKELLAR'S STORY
But first to hear Senator McKellar's story.

He read to the senate a dispatch from London citing the announcement that construction of two of the newest British cruisers had been canceled. These were the cruisers Surrey and Northumberland, the dispatch said, on which MacDonald had suspended work shortly before his visit to the United States last year.

"I think that the American people thought work had begun on them and that Prime Minister MacDonald had directed that the work stop," McKellar said. "In other words the prime minister said work would be discontinued. When it was resumed we do not know. Now the British admiralty says work on these two ships is going to be discontinued again.... Work on these two ships has never actually been started. Yet Prime Minister MacDonald stopped the work on them when he came here last fall and now the British admiralty, it has said, has stopped work on these ships again, and at the same time, it appears that work has never been started on either of them."

McKellar was sure Senators Robinson and Lodge, delegates to London, wouldn't be misled by such balderdash and claptrap. Senator Fess of Ohio said there was a difference between cancellation and suspension of work, but he admitted himself "startled" when McKellar read from the dispatch that work on these ships never had actually been started.

"What are they doing to us?" McKellar demanded. "What do they take us for?"

Well, it would appear that the British first suspended construction and then canceled the two authorized cruisers altogether. Investigation reveals that there had been no keels laid, that preliminary steps in cruiser-making, which naval men commonly class under the head of "construction," were suspended before MacDonald came here and that now the two ships have been abandoned altogether.

OUR OWN CASE
Now consider our own case: Doubtless many Americans still have the impression that we suspended construction on three cruisers pending the London conference. Mr. Hoover, on July 24, as a gesture of good will, said something which led to that belief. He said there were three cruisers in this year's (the fiscal year beginning July 1) construction program which had been undertaken in government yards, detailed drawings for which were in the course of preparation. "The actual keels would in the ordinary course, be laid down some time this fall.... We shall not lay down these keels until there has been an opportunity for full consideration of their effect upon the final agreement for parity which we expect to reach."

But the White House issued no orders for suspension. The Navy Department didn't change its plans. These three cruisers were to be underway in the year beginning July 1 and one learns at the Navy's Bureau of Construction and Repair that it always takes from eight to 12 months before keels are laid, making February the earliest time when keel-laying might begin. Neither has keel-laying begun on the two cruisers undertaken by private yards at the same time. The other preliminary work is under way. The navy is proceeding with its cruiser-building work "in the ordinary manner," explaining that it always takes time to get material assembled and to try out new improvements.

It takes about 35 months to build a cruiser and about the time the London conference breaks up the time for keel-laying doubtless will have come. It is commonly expected that the United States will not only finish the three cruisers dealt with in the Hoover statement and the two now being built by private yards, but also the 15 others authorized by congress. Britain has so many more cruisers than we have that cancellation will have to be left to her.

But thus far no one has arisen in the British Parliament and talked about us as Senator McKellar talked about England.

BRITISH STATESMAN RIDES ON BICYCLE
London.—(AP)—Midnight sessions of the house of commons have been numerous lately, but not because of late hours like them. Not all members ride on bicycles. Many 80 years old on the underground or use omnibuses, and in London such transportation is unavailable after 12:30 a. m.

The prime minister, Ramsay MacDonald usually walks from No. 10 Downing st., but Sir Bertram Folke, M. P. from Portsmouth, has to think about his horses.

Sir Bertram always drives up to historic Westminster behind a pair of bays. He steps out leisurely, pets his horse a moment, sits down each a jump of sugar out of his pocket and then goes inside to hear another debate on the Dole.

J. R. West, Labor member from the royal borough of North Kensington, chooses a more democratic means of transportation. He comes to work on a bicycle.

None has adopted the motorcycle as a regular parliamentary vehicle, but young Frank Owen, 24, member from Herefordshire, came on one the first day of the session.

But thus far no one has arisen in the British Parliament and talked about us as Senator McKellar talked about England.

RAPS McKELLER FOR STAND ON BRITISH CRUISER AGITATION

If Britain Is Making Gesture Then We Are Even for Hoover's Move

Washington.—There is something in the Bible about moles and beams in people's eyes and someone had better get Senator Kenneth McKellar off in a corner and read it to him before the senator makes any further attempt to demonstrate that Albion is still perfidious.

It may be, as McKellar says, that Great Britain's cancelling of two new cruisers is so much misleading "balderdash" and "claptrap" despite its interpretation as a pleasant gesture on Premier Ramsay MacDonald's part during the naval arms limitation conference.

Your Income Tax

No. 15

The vast majority of taxpayers are salaried persons and entitled, therefore, to a 25 per cent credit on their earned income. Correctly to compute this credit, the taxpayer first must compute the amount of tax which would be payable without the earned income credit and from this amount 25 per cent is to be deducted, the balance being the amount of tax due.

Earned income is defined as "wages, salaries, professional fees, and other amounts received as compensation for personal services actually rendered." However, all net income up to $5,000, whether actually earned or not, is considered earned income for the purpose of this credit.

A taxpayer may have received in 1929 a salary of $3,500 and from a real estate transaction a net profit of $1,500. Nevertheless, the entire $5,000 is considered as earned income. Following is an example of how a taxpayer unmarried and with no dependents, should compute his tax on a net income of $5,000:

Net income $5,000.00
Less personal exemption 1,500.00

Balance taxable at one-half of 1 per cent 3,500.00

One-half of 1 per cent 17.50
Less 25 per cent of $17.50, earned-income credit 4.38

Balance of tax payable 13.12
Other examples of how to compute the earned-income credit will follow.

The Japanese government monopoly controlling the tobacco industry cleared $50,952,266 in 1929.

Train Wreck Inquiry Held Over Until Coming Week

on the next legislature, a bill requiring indicators on crossing devices to show from which direction a train was coming.

All debris of the wreck had been cleared by this morning.

ROAD BLAMES AUTOIST
The reckless driving of a youth hurrying home from a "date" was blamed today by railroad officials for the wreck.

Edward R. Egger, Chicago, chief investigator for the railway, placed the responsibility upon Norman Shinnars, 21, Milwaukee who tried to beat the five car Chicago-bound train to a highway crossing. Shinnars' car was demolished as the speeding train struck it, killing him and his companion, Frank Tomczak. The wreckage of the automobile, ground under the wheels of the passenger train, threw it from the track and shunted it into a north bound freight train.

In addition to the North Shore investigation, Kenosha-co and state authorities today attempted to find causes for the wreck. Coroner Anthony E. Schmitz impaneled a jury and announced an inquest would be held but set no date for the hearing. Members of the legislative interim commission on traffic began an investigation for the state.

CALLS HIM RECKLESS
After preliminary questioning of survivors, Egger issued the following statement: "It is merely another instance of a reckless automobile driver disregarding plainly marked railroad crossings, and signals and attempting to beat the train to the crossing."

Shinnars was hurrying home to Milwaukee after a visit at the home of his fiancée, Jeannette Bohanan, 19, who lives near here. Speeding, according to witnesses, Shinnars swung his car around another automobile waiting at the crossing for the train to pass. He shot onto the crossing. There was a crash as the train smashed into the car. The car hurtled to the northbound tracks as the passenger train left the rails. A freight speeded north. The passenger, derailed by the automobile, sidwiped the freight. Passenger coaches careened and telescoped as freight cars, the automobile, rails and high tension electric wires twisted into croses patched debris.

Hundreds of passengers were buried beneath the mass. Eleven persons, including those in the automobile, were killed outright. Doctors could hold slight hope for 11 others of the injured.

PRINCELY MARITAL SUIT MAY NOT GO TO COURTS
Monte Carlo, Monaco.—(AP) Monaco officialdom hopes and believes the domestic difficulties of the princely house may be solved without litigation in the French courts.

Mayor Eugene Marguet said today that although Princess Charlotte, daughter of the ruling Prince Louis, filed suit at Nice yesterday for separation from her husband, Prince Pierre, the matter probably never would go further.

He said he expected a civil family agreement in which Prince Pierre would hold the regency for his young son, Prince Louis. "I discussed the question with Prince Louis and believe it can be arranged satisfactorily," he said.

Meanwhile the entire army of eighty, most of whom are captains, has been kept ready in barracks for instant action if the marital difficulties of the two should threaten to disturb the principality.

Prince Louis, butler told reporters last evening that the prince was "eating such a fine lobster he couldn't be disturbed over state affairs."

STUDY OF HOUSEWORK PREPARES FOR COLLEGE
Minneapolis.—(AP)—Studies in house hold arts, industrial and work shop subjects may do as well as mathematics and foreign language in qualifying students for college says a report to the American Association by Dr. Earl R. Douglass of the College of Education, University of Minnesota.

"The special values attributed to certain subjects taught in high schools as peculiarly preparatory for college would seem to rest upon assumptions or theories that do not conform to fact," he says.

His observations are based upon analysis of work of 400 students of the University of Oregon.

KELLETER SPEAKS FOR LAKE FRONTAGE BILL
Madison.—(AP)—Paul D. Kelleter, director of the Wisconsin Conservation commission, was scheduled to appear before the public lands committee in the house of representatives at Washington today to argue for passage of the Peavey bill.

The bill, introduced by Congressman H. H. Peavey of the 11th district, is aimed to protect the state lake shore frontage in northern Wisconsin. Approximately 200 miles of lake shore frontage is at stake because of the inaccessibility of old survey lines.

SWEDA OFFERS ALIBI IN SEGELBACH SLAYING
Racine.—(AP)—Bruno Sweda, on trial for the slaying of Julius Segelbach, in the latter's home-front grocery, Jan. 9, today presented the alibi that several Negroes appeared in the store just before the shooting, demanded whisky, were refused and returned to Segelbach's.

Sweda, a roofer in Segelbach's home, had argued with her husband over the latter's attempt to evict Sweda from the home Mrs. Segelbach had previously testified.

Sweda today admitted this argument and said he went to his room to pack, preparatory to leaving. Returning to the kitchen he said he heard a shot and went to the front of the house-store in time to see the hand and arm of a Negro disappear around the casing of the front door.

He said he telephoned police on finding Segelbach fatally wounded, and said that when Mrs. Segelbach came with an officer she accused him of the shooting. He admitted it in a confession at police headquarters later, he said, because of the stress of the day and his emotional state.

ALOHA?
Honolulu.—Hawaii is a land where one word goes a long way. That word is "Aloha," which is used to mean "hello" or "good-bye." It is used to say: "How are you?" "Thank you," "Merry Christmas," and "I love you." In addition the word has been used to name the popular song of the Islands, and it gives Honolulu's landmark—Aloha Tower. It will also be used to name the big spring festival of the Island April 9.

SOAP SCULPTURE PIECES SHOWN IN COLLEGE LIBRARY

Exhibition Will Be on Display There for Remainder of Month

About 100 pieces of sculpture selected from the 3,000 models entered in the fifth annual competition of small sculpture in white soap for the Proctor and Gamble prizes will be on exhibition in the art alcove of the Lawrence college library for the remainder of the month. This exhibition, recently displayed at the Anderson galleries, New York city, includes sculptures entered by professionals and amateurs, both adults and children, from all over the United States.

White soap as a medium for sculpture achieved prominence with the First Annual competition five years ago. Since then, it has grown in popularity, both with professional sculptors and architects for experimental models, and with amateurs who made soap carvings for their own amusement. The educational value of soap sculpture has been recognized by directors of museums, art schools, and other educational groups, becoming an accepted part of the art course in many public and private schools throughout the country.

In the current exhibition, New York, California, Michigan, Connecticut, Indiana, Colorado, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Nebraska, New Jersey, Illinois, Minnesota, Ohio, West Virginia, and Mississippi, were represented among the prize winners of the Proctor and Gamble prizes this year. The judges of the contest were Dr. Gustave Straubenmuller, associate superintendent of schools, New York City; Charles Dana Gibson, Harvey Wiley Corbett, president of the Architectural League; Harriet Fishburn, Lorado Taft, C. J. Barnhorn, Cincinnati art museum; Gutzon Borglum, Alon Bement, director of the art center; Leo Lentelli, George E. Ball, director of Design of the Gorham company, and R. Guy Cowan, Pottery.

Alfred G. Pelikan, director of the Milwaukee Art Institute and another sponsor of the competition, said: "The art of soap sculpture has been so firmly established throughout the country that it has entirely vindicated itself of any charge of being just another fad. It has done a great deal to awaken and further appreciation of the fine art of sculpture, particularly as it relates to every life."

Lorado Taft, Chicago, internationally famous sculptor, also a member of the Jury of Award, said "I think you are doing one of the finest things possible for the discovery of talent and the encouragement of American sculpture."

Charles Dana Gibson said: "Michael Angelo began by modeling in butter. If Proctor and Gamble had been in existence in those days, he would have used soap."

2,521 BADGERS GOT PASSPORTS LAST YEAR

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
 Washington—Last year 2,521 Wisconsin people obtained passports for travel abroad.
 Wisconsin's share of the travelers in foreign lands was 1.28 per cent of the total number of persons to whom passports were issued by the Department of State.
 Possibly more Wisconsin people traveled than would be shown by the number of passports issued, for a man may obtain one passport covering his wife, his minor children, and his women servants.
 People with no occupation made up the biggest group of those obtaining passports in the country as a whole, 13.42 per cent of those obtaining passports listing no occupation. Housewives came next, making up 12.16 per cent.
 Travel was the object of 47.76 per cent of those obtaining passports, and family affairs were the reasons for trips given by 34.52 per cent.

CREAMERY BUTTER OUTPUT IS LARGER

State Production Last Year
 Tops 1928 Mark by
 8,000,000 Pounds

Chicago—(P)—Wisconsin's creamery butter production in 1929 exceeded the 1928 output by 8,208,000 pounds, according to a bulletin issued by the American Research Foundation here.

"The state's creamery butter production last year totaled 147,159,000 pounds, according to estimates of the department of Agriculture," said the bulletin, "compared with 138,951,000 pounds the year before. Creamery butter production for the entire United States last year registered an increase of 26,468,000 pounds which means Wisconsin accounted for a little more than 20 per cent of the nation's increase."
 "A total of 2,993,380,300 pounds of butter including 1,513,580,300 pounds of creamery and 589,800,000 pounds of farm butter were manufactured in the United States in 1929. This compared with 2,077,049,000 pounds in 1928, made up of 1,487,048,000 pounds of creamery and 590,000,000 pounds of farm butter. While creamery butter showed a gain in output of 26,468,000 pounds that of farm butter decreased by 10,000,000 making the nation's net increase of all kinds of butter 16,468,000 pounds over 1928. Butter consumption was 25,000,000 pounds less in 1929 than in 1928.

 "Wisconsin, last year, produced nearly one-tenth of all the creamery butter turned out in the United States. That increased butter production in a number of states including Wisconsin was a responsible factor in creating the present butter surplus is evident, according to agricultural economists. Minnesota's increase was 12,000,000 pounds over 1928 and Wisconsin's 8,208,000 pounds. Dairy farmers themselves have been blamed for the surplus because they were said to be using margarine instead of butter. Analysis of the situation indicates that overproduction not only of butter, but of other dairy products as well is the basic cause.

TRY BANK ROBBER SUSPECTS IN COURT HERE ON MARCH 10

Men Accused of Holding Up
 Black Creek Bank Nov. 8 to Go on Trial

Trial of Larry Lawrence and E. H. Stewart, Chicago, charged with robbing the bank of Black Creek late in the afternoon of Nov. 8 and obtaining $100, has been set for March 10 in municipal court, by Judge Theodore Berg. The date for selecting a jury has been set for March 7.

Lawrence and Stewart voluntarily came to Appleton on Jan. 15 when they learned they were to be indicted in connection with the robbery. They turned themselves over to Fred W. Giese, former sheriff and asked for a hearing. They also asked that if they were bound over for trial their bail be set at $100,000. They were arraigned at 1 and over and bail was fixed at $100,000 each.

Testimony at a hearing was given by George Peters, cashier of the bank. Mrs. George Peters, his wife, who was employed at the bank when the robbery occurred, said by cross-examination that she saw the men who robbed the bank. She testified that she saw Lawrence and Stewart, but he was not sure.

Mrs. Peters said she was not seen by her husband at the time of the robbery. She said she was not in the bank when the robbery occurred. However, he was not positive in his identification of Stewart.

SEEK AID IN CLEARING UP RADIO RECEPTION

A request for information about the methods used in Appleton to clear up static conditions here, for radio reception has been made by the city clerk of Iron Mountain, Mich., to the local chamber of commerce. The Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co., helped the situation here several months ago and it is believed that the public utility, which also operates in Iron Mountain, can also clear up reception in that city, according to word received here.

THE WETS SCORE

The wets have had their inning at Washington in the hearings on prohibition, and they have scored heavily. Four or five years ago, with the exception of Nicholas Murray Butler and one or two other outstanding men, the protest against prohibition was confined principally to labor, which alleged that it was discriminatory and unjust. In the hearings just held condemnation of prohibition has been voiced by large industrialists, leaders of big business, financiers, prominent lawyers, journalists and educators. It is a remarkable shifting of attitude.

So long as the opposition to prohibition was confined to those who merely wanted to drink and to the commercial wet interests little impression was made upon the thinking people of the country, but when manufacturers and other extensive employers of labor commenced to question the economic validity of prohibition, educators and professional men of reputation challenged its social and moral value, when authorities like James M. Beck pointed out its repugnance to the constitution and its real political significance, a great change is heralded. Up to within the last two or three years it was a case of dry fanatics vs. wet fanatics. The wets were just as bad as the dries in the excesses of their acts and denunciation. They were supported by fanatical newspapers which could see only one side of the question, and by ranting politicians who saw in whatever position they took an opportunity to attract attention and make votes.

Two important incidents bearing on prohibition occurred at Washington within the last few days. One was Congressman Beck's notable speech on the constitutional phases of the question, and the other was the declaration by Senator McKellar of Tennessee that Secretary Mellon "has never really tried to enforce" the dry laws and that no president since their enactment had been "really interested" in their enforcement "except for political considerations." We have previously discussed Mr. Beck's address, which has produced an altogether remarkable reaction from one end of the country to the other. Senator McKellar states a fact that this newspaper has repeated over and over again, but which up to this time does not seem to have obtained wide public recognition. Nevertheless, it is one of the striking features of the experiment.

No president has shown the slightest personal interest in upholding the Volstead act and in lending the high prestige and power of his office to a demonstration of its soundness and worth. President Wilson was frankly out of sympathy with the constitutional amendment. Mr. Harding is alleged to have been a consistent personal violator. Mr. Coolidge had the adroitness and good sense to keep out of the controversy. Mr. Hoover has too cosmopolitan an experience and too scientific a mind to delude himself with belief that prohibition can be made to succeed. He has made a strong gesture toward enforcement by appealing to the civic and patriotic spirit of the people to obey, but he is not going to call on the army or navy to dry up the nation. He has, in fact, done nothing as yet to make Washington or the District of Columbia dry. As for Mr. Mellon, it would be oversteering the case to say that he had more than an academic interest at the most. Mr. Mellon has not been for prohibition and he is too good a politician to overstate the case to say that he had more than an academic interest at the most. Mr. Mellon has not been for prohibition and he is too good a politician to overstate the case to say that he had more than an academic interest at the most.

We therefore have the obvious and unchallenged fact that from the president of the United States down, including congress itself, the government is a hypocrite and that whatever pretensions it may make favorable to prohibition are in reality dishonest. If the president and congress continuously refuse to enforce prohibition, how can they expect citizens to obey? If they are playing politics with the whole problem and are insincere, how can they expect the American public to respect the law and to maintain anything but cynicism toward sporadic raids and the occasional punishment of violators?

Washington policies through 11 years of prohibition finally appear in their true light. They constitute a monumental and disgraceful farce. Thousands of inconspicuous citizens have been made the goat of a fake and false drive in behalf of prohibition. High-ups, both in official and non-official circles, have enjoyed immunity and have laughed up their sleeves at the whole performance. Will it ever be any different? Who is so foolish as to delude himself with the idea that it will be?

AUDITION FOR NOISE.

"Noise is a menace to health," says the chief sanitary engineer of the Chicago health department. "It creates nervousness and wears people out. Much of the noise in the city is unavoidable, but much of it is unnecessary and should be silenced."

So he is doing his best to have it silenced, supported by an anti-noise ordinance similar to one recently adopted in New York. And being an engineer, he has an ingenious device to locate the offensive noises and register the evidence.

This is an "audiometer" which seems to be a sort of combination of tuning fork and electric battery, and is designed to give noise an audition, as a radio broadcaster would say. It gives normally a buzz which is comparable in volume of sound to the speaking voice at close range. Above this volume, sound becomes unpleasant and therefore unhealthy. The inspector, as he goes around snooping for illegal noise, holds the contraption to his ear and turns a dial. Street noises not greater than the noise of the automatic buzzer are all right. Louder noises are indicated in percentages on an ascending scale, up to 100. Thus the noise detective can get the goods on offensive radio advertising sets, street hawkers, elevated trains, street cars with flat wheels, honking automobiles, and all sorts of people and things unnecessarily jangling the nerves of sensitive citizens.

When Chicago, which has been the noisiest and most insensitive of cities, undertakes a campaign like this in its boiler-factory "loop," anything can happen in the way of reform, anywhere. If Chicago can suppress noise, surely other cities can. It may even prove possible in time to quiet speed-boats and outboard motors.

BEATING THE STOCK GAME

Millions have tried to "break the bank" at Monte Carlo. Thousands of "systems" have been devised, many of which worked—for a while. Mostly the bank has won just the same. For the bank has the safest system of all. Every gambling house has its machinery adjusted so that in the long run it cannot lose. Millions have tried to beat the stock market game, and are still at it. The latest and most pretentious system seems to have been worked out not by a speculator but by an economist. Willford King has invented a general business barometer based on 44 factors which he thinks will enable any intelligent student to forecast for himself the approaching weather in the stock market. The system is to be applied in a new investment trust.

It is a very scientific effort to solve the old Wall street problem of buying at the bottom and selling at the top. It may be used successfully for considerable periods. But anyone may doubt whether it can win in the long run, much better than previous systems. The "house" still has an advantage, at least, in the rake-off that automatically goes to it in the commissions collected by the stock brokers and the interest paid on stock loans, as the sales wash back and forth. The Wall street population has to be supported in the style to which it is accustomed.

Doctors who write prescriptions in illegible hands are liable to be fined under a new Norwegian law.

The Post-Mortem

President Hoover has sent out invitations to congressional leaders and big shots of the treasury to come to breakfast at his house and discuss the possibility of cutting down on expenses. Today's Anniversary

ADAMS' FIRST MINISTRY

On February 25, John Adams, second president of the United States, was appointed the first minister to England.

Adams was one of the political leaders of Massachusetts and an influential member of the Second Continental Congress. He achieved distinction in diplomatic circles when he secured from Holland a loan for the national finances and negotiated terms of peace and commerce with Great Britain.

Appointed minister to England, Adams found his post an irksome one. He believed his service was doing his country no good and returned home after only three years abroad.

In the first election under the new Constitution Adams was elected vice president, serving two terms. In 1796, on the refusal of Washington to accept a third term, he was chosen president.

Adams died July 4, 1826, on the same day as Thomas Jefferson, John Quincy Adams, sixth president of the United States, was his son.

THE MAIN DRAWBACK ABOUT THE NEW HEALTH DIET IS IT COMES FROM CALIFORNIA

The new health diet, a corrective, protective and incidentally a reduction regimen given in detail here the other day, has many commendable features, even in this day of "frenzied dieting," but then it is not without some drawbacks, too, and the main drawback is that it hails from the land of queer cults and freak healing systems. When Dr. Lovell Langstroth of San Francisco presented this remarkable eating plan to the medical profession last summer, the assembled doctors of the country seemed to find no serious fault with the dietary itself, but they found fault with California. One of them who voiced this matter clearly in discussing Dr. Langstroth's paper, is himself a California physician. He said:

"These dietary fads are carried to such an extreme that they are taking the place of correct clinical diagnosis and physical examination. If we are swayed by catchwords and slogans and dietary methods, it is about time to do a big house-cleaning. The question of acids being precipitated by diets is one which has been especially harmful. There is a tremendous propaganda in California, which is entirely exploited by commercial interest, and the facts which are supporting this whole structure are totally unconvincing."

Hum, the dangerous "eighteen-day diet" emanated from California, and from the very Hub of Hokus—the Hollywood section. Amen, too, there is the notorious "doctor" who holds forth in publications of easy virtue and assures the credulous readers that a short fast—wither plenty of California fruit juices to lighten the tedium—will cure anything but cancerousness to cancer in a week or two.

Dr. Langstroth, however, suggested his diet for a definite purpose and on what would seem good grounds. He called attention to the fact that the usual American dietary—consisting so largely of meat, bread, tea or coffee and sweets or carbohydrates, contains barely 12 per cent of protective foods—items that provide vitamins. His corrective diet contains 70 per cent or more of protective foods. Further he maintained that the usual American dietary conduces to early degenerative disease, such as simple degenerative arthritis, so common in middle life, arteriosclerosis, "indigestion," high blood pressure, headaches, and so on. The San Francisco author gave technical data from 501 case histories in most of which the corrective had proved remarkably beneficial. For one instance of thirty-five patients with hypertension (high blood pressure) 43 had an average reduction of 31 mm. in blood pressure on the new health diet; and for another, more than two-thirds of 55 patients whose chief complaint was "indigestion" were much improved or completely relieved by the diet.

Other physicians from as far back as Hippocrates and Galen agreed that such a diet as Dr. Langstroth suggested might be desirable in place of the usual family diet; but thought the benefits of the corrective diet might be ascribed to increase residue, decreased calories or the predominance of alkaline ash as well as to the increased vitamins. But that is mere halapitting—a favorite dodge of medical professors in the effete east.

I believe Dr. Langstroth has given in plain language, and over the map, at least the cut of the new health diet even if it does favor foods grown in his own land.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Chilblains Removed While You Wait. Kindly recommend a good remedy or treatment for chilblains. (Miss W. A.)

Answer—Avoid frostbite by wearing larger or roomier shoes, wool stockings, avoiding tight garters, using suitable remedies to correct excessive sweating of the feet. Cork insoles make good insulation. For emergency relief, rub the feet with camphorated soap liniment, or with witch hazel. If there is much itching and burning, use the familiar calamine lotion. Chilblains (pernio) is a first degree frostbite, comparable with first degree burn, redness and slight inflammation of the skin. If blisters occur, that is second degree frostbite, and requires surgical treatment, but if a physician is not available, apply antiseptic dressings, as you would for an actual wound. In some cases of annually recurring trouble after frostbite, a few X-ray treatments will bring much relief.

Please explain in your column:

(a) Cause of enlargement of the thyroid gland.

(b) Method of treatment.

Thanking you in advance, etc. (A. H.)

Answer—(a) Goiter is enlargement of the thyroid gland. Goiter is most frequently due to shortage of iodine in food, water or medicine.

(b) Treatment depends on the individual condition and is a question to leave entirely to the attending physician.

Please look up the meaning of thanks in the dictionary. You will find it cannot be given in advance. (Copyright John F. Dille Co.)

The Tynymites

By Hal Cochran

THE Tynies crept up slow, but sure. Of course the big box was the lure that made them all keep quiet so the boy would not awake. "Don't make a sound," one Tyn said. "That boy might be a sleep, but any noise might wake him. No disturbance must we make."

Just then the boy turned on his side, and Scouty whispered, "Turn and hide. Don't let that fellow see us. He might spank us good and sound. Say! Hurry! Can't you realize that if he opens up his eyes we're right here on the ground?"

Behind some trees the Tynies hid and was a good thing that they did. The little boy sat right up straight and opened up his eyes. He stretched a bit and looked around and then dropped back upon the ground. If he had listened closely, he'd have heard the Tynies' sighs.

"He's going back to sleep, I guess," said Conny. "We've just missed a mess. All we can do is wait a while, until we hear him snore. Then, when we're sure he's sleeping sound, we'll crawl right up and either round that little box and try to peek within the thing once more."

It was a short wait for the crowd, until the boy was snoring loud. They crept up to the little box. "Now open it," cried one. "We don't know what it's all about, but we'll very soon find out. Perhaps we're bad for taking this, but it will be real fun."

Up went the lid. The Tynies jumped and how their little hearts thumped. Some animal crackers layed right out and scampered here and there. Cried Scouty, "Catch them! Make them stay! But every cracker got away." Then Conny said, "It seems that all we got was quite a scare."

(The Tynymites wake the boy in the next story.)

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK
New York — Our own encyclopedia:

Although sabots—the wooden shoes of Dutch peasants—are made in a factory at Orange City, Iowa, most of them are worn by the ice cream makers and kitchen men of New York, the better to keep their feet dry.

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, mother of Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt (they just won't keep out of this column), is known to the readers of the Social Register merely as Mrs. Vanderbilt. She is said by social lights to be the only one so distinguished since the late Mrs. John Jacob Astor was THE Mrs. Astor.

We had occasion recently to mention the Washboard Serenaders, a three-piece seggy band that played at the literary teas for Richard Halliburton and Peggy Hopkins Joyce. The trio were found on the streets of Washington, where they played for dimes and nickels, by Lee Posner, a Harlem enthusiast, who got them work in a downtown cabaret. Their name is taken from the washboard which one of them scrapes with a pick, in lieu of a drum.

COLD SHOULDERS

Street of failures is the Bowery. Along that dingy, decrepit lane hibernate the bums, dozing between cups of coffee and crusts of bread in the missions.

Street of the unemployed is Sixth avenue. There grifty stairs lead up from a row of doorways to a employment agencies crowded daily by those willing to take any kind of a job. Slips of paper tacked to the bulletin boards downstairs announce the wants—waiters at $6 a week and tips, dishwashers, laborers, elevator operators and doorman.

Now and then an inhabitant of the Bowery neighborhood trudges the few miles north and west to seek a job on Sixth avenue. Failing in his search, for there never are enough jobs to go 'round, he finally drags his weary feet back to the street of failures.

One persisted and Broadway of late was paced by an old man who bore across a think back a sand—which sign reading, "I want work and sufficient pay to live on." Broadway tender hearted toward beggars, highway of suckers who buy 25 cent watches that have no inside, apparently was only amused. The 60-year-old sandwich man was Hugo Edward Cedarholm, found dead of gas the other Friday in his bare room a few blocks east of the Bowery.

ANT HILLS

H. M. Tomlinson, the British author here to visit his son who is with the publisher of his new book, stopped at an old fashioned hotel near Washington square, whence he ventured forth on trips about the city.

He has journeyed far, in the capitals of Europe and the islands of the Indians, but parts of New York frightened him.

Amazed, though he was at the "old maid," the rows of great stone houses inhabited by the rich were depressing to what he called "a free soul."

"I crept out of Park avenue," he said, "like an ant."

50-YEAR PROGRAM OF REFORESTATION URGED FOR STATE

Recommendation to Cover
Six Million Acres Made by Forestry Group

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent)

Washington—A fifty-year program of reforestation of about six million acres of land in Wisconsin is recommended by the American Forestry Association.

According to the Association, "Increased and continued profits to owners, revenue to the state on lands that failed to pay taxes, and prosperity for forest products-using industries will result from proper care of this land which is best suited to forest growing."

Of this acreage about one-seventh is state owned, the balance being in the hands of private individuals and companies. It is part of the 20,000,000 acres of the Lakes States, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Michigan, for which a long period of forest planting is recommended.

The forestry association says that a fifty year program is considered desirable for a state having the amount of cut-over and denuded land Wisconsin possesses.

At this time the state is importing 300,000,000 more board feet of timber than it is cutting, according to the Association, and there are only 2,000,000 acres of virgin forest uncut.

The State of Wisconsin ranks second in pulp and third in paper production, says the Forestry Association, using twenty-seven per cent of its water power in producing these commodities. As home supplies of pulpwood are being exhausted it is necessary to go further and further for raw material, adding freight rates to costs. More than one-half of the pulpwood used in America is imported from Canada and Europe.

Referring to aids to reforestation, the Association said that increased fire protection and the new Forest Crop Law, under which both state and individuals pay ten cents an acre and the owner pays a ten per cent tax on the gross value of timber cut, are encouraging reforestation. Important, too, in the reforestation program, is the fact that profitable timber can be grown in a comparatively short time. Instead of holding land idle for thirty or forty years to obtain returns, it is possible to grow timber in one-half the time for pulp purposes.

In a survey of Marinette-co, made by the Association, it was found that the towns showing the most prosperity other than those in which agriculture is well established are those in which wood using industries are found, and that one-third of the population of the county is dependent upon wood-using industries.

Selective logging, planting on cut-over and burned land, and fire protection, the Forestry Association pointed out, will assure towns of permanent wood-using industries which, hand in hand, with agriculture will bring prosperity.

According to scientific surveys, forests have a practical as well as a pleasurable recreational value. In

LAWRENCE-ST NOT DUE FOR IMPROVEMENT NOW

Although the Lawrence-st fill is not expected to sink to any marked degree after the spring settling, no plans for the permanent improvement of the street have been made. L. M. Schindler, city engineer states. Until the earth is completely settled no attempt will be made to construct a concrete pavement or sidewalk, as even a small settling would crack the concrete. New dirt is still being hauled to the street and it is probable that filling in will continue throughout the summer.

However, the slope will be graded and seeded next spring.

In addition to the delights they afford residents of Wisconsin for vacation, they attract tourists who are spending $100,000,000 annually, according to the Forestry Association. Taxes collected from clubs and from hunting and fishing licenses also contribute to the state's revenues. Moreover, forested areas demand little or no county expenditures for roads and schools.

MINT PRODUCERS YIELD TO COOPERATIVE IDEA

South Bend, Ind. —(P)—Cooperative marketing has won over peppermint growers of Indiana and Michigan, perhaps the most exclusive of farm producers.

For years the mint growers of this section, who supply more than 80 per cent of the world's supply, balked at the cooperative idea. Their market was assured, chewing gum and candy claiming most of their product. The old Kankakee marsh, with its muck and peat soil, was peculiarly adapted to peppermint growing.

However, peppermint oil that is refined from the leaves now sells for $2.75 a pound. It once was worth its weight in silver. In former days it was stored in bank vaults.

Virginia would have to spend $4,545,564 to replace game killed in the state during the 1928-1929 season, according to the game and fish commission.

Quality....

All works of quality must bear a price in proportion to the skill, time, expense and risk attending their invention and manufacture. Those things called dear are, when justly estimated, the cheapest. They are attended with much less profit to the artist than those things which everybody calls cheap.

Beautiful forms and compositions are not made by chance, nor can they ever, in any material, be made at small expense.

A composition for cheapness, and not for excellence of workmanship, is the most frequent and certain cause for the rapid decay and entire destruction of arts and manufacture.

EVERYTHING IS ROSY NOW SAY STYLE EXPERTS

BY DIANA MERWIN
Fashion Editor
(Associated Press Feature Service)
Paris—(AP)—Pink and white, symbols of daintiness and innocence are going to be conspicuous in the highly feminized fashions of the coming spring it appears.

Outfitters, bringing reinvented long skirts and frocked-in waists, are seeing everything through rose colored spectacles. Pink is the new spring shade, according to many, replacing yellow, the rage of last year.

Important fabric manufacturers, who supply the haute couture with materials, are agreed that pink shades will be noticeable for sport and evening costumes in many leading style houses.

White is already an established favorite with well dressed women, both for sport and evening dresses. White will retain all of its prestige, according to the fabric people, and pastel shades, particularly pink, will supplement it.

The particular shade of pink preferred is a faded version of wild rose. Some of the new pink is just barely discernible from white, so delicate is their tint.

Tea rose pink satin for evening is prophesied for the women who insist upon summer sunburn.

Pale blues and greens are other colors much talked about for the coming season.

Interesting Menus

BY SISTER MARY

NEA Service Writer
Rice pudding is elaborate enough for a festive occasion, but is not too rich for children. This makes it particularly desirable for the hostess who must plan for small persons as well as adults. Here is a popular recipe:

One-half cup rice, 1 cup finely chopped dates, 5-4 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk, 1 tablespoon syrup from preserved cherries, 1 cup whipping cream.
Cook rice in boiling, salted water until tender. Drain and mix with dates and sugar. Soften gelatin in 2 tablespoons cold water for five minutes. Dissolve over boiling water and mix with juice of orange and lemon and cherry syrup. Whip cream until firm and beat into gelatin mixture. Add to rice mixture and beat until thoroughly blended. Stir from bottom to top until pudding begins to set and then turn into small molds. Let stand on ice for several hours until chilled and firm. When ready to serve, unmold and sprinkle finely chopped cherries over the top of each form.

FROZEN FRUIT PUDDING
The following frozen fruit pudding uses the fruits at hand in most homes and may be frozen in an electric refrigerator or regulation ice cream freezer. No eggs are used. The pronounced fruit flavor makes it particularly acceptable after a hearty winter dinner.

One cup peaches rubbed through a sieve, 1 cup apricot jam, 1 lemon, 2 oranges, 1-2 cups granulated sugar, 4 cups whipping cream.
Rub canned peaches through a sieve to make one cup. Mix with jam and juice of lemon and oranges. Add grated rind of lemon. Whip cream until firm, gradually beating in sugar. Stir in fruit mixture and turn into freezer. Stir occasionally while freezing to insure a complete mixture of fruit and cream.

When ready to serve, scoop out in balls with an ice cream scoop and roll in fine macaroon crumbs. Chocolate "shot" can be used in place of macaroon crumbs if preferred.

FIVE PLEDGES ARE INITIATED BY FRATERNITY

Theta Phi, Lawrence college fraternity, initiated five pledges into active membership Sunday. Following formal initiation at the fraternity home in the afternoon, a banquet in honor of the new members was held at Hotel Northern.

Those initiated are Lawrence Roelck, Kiel; David Rockwell, Miami, Fla.; Gerald Schoenbach, 324 W. Lawrence-st., Appleton; Glen Hansen, Green Bay; and Ellis Yaley, Menasha. John Wilderding, Menasha, an alumnus of the fraternity, was the principal speaker.

The sound of Sybil's voice
Sue and Jack both looked at the door. Jack replaced the telephone receiver leisurely and ignored her outstretched hands as he answered.
"If you're located I think our mission is done. Ready, Sue?" He handed the man a bill, thanked him, and stepped aside to let Sue pass, but Sybil blocked the door, her hazel eyes cool and scornful. She laughed a throaty contralto laugh.
"You think I'm being melodramatic, don't you? I'm not, though. I did call you from the cabin, and right afterwards I got so frightened I managed to get this far. I tried to watch your car, but nobody came. And then, just now, I heard your voice. Rather a belated rescue party, wasn't it?"
She stood in the doorway, slim and straight and regal, and even Sue admitted that the wine-red dress of flat crepe, with its long flared skirt and tucked-in blouse, and the matching hat whose draped brim was smartly long in back, gave her a touch of sophistication that held the interest. Sue was conscious that her skirt and sweater and coat and her mere old sports things. She wished that Sybil could see her in her new ensemble.
Jack looked away unseeing and did not glance at Sybil while she talked. His lips were closed firmly and his chin increased its stubborn set. He made no comment, when she finished, either because of chivalry, inborn, would not permit it, or because he preferred to leave the situation without comment.
"Well, say something," Sybil said at last, amusedly contemptuous. "I can prove my story by this man. Isn't that true?"
He nodded sullenly.
"Then why didn't you want anyone to know where you were this morning?" Jack asked.
"Because I was furious when no one came last night. I thought it wasn't any of your business now!" She tapped the floor with a high-heeled pump and Sue noticed that the flared skirt of her dress came almost to the floor on the sides, and swept away in front just enough to show the sheer chiffon of her stockings and the steel buckles that adorned her pumps.
"Your own tricks are catching you, Sybil," Jack's deep minor voice said at last. "Why did you have this man tell us the same story last night? He said this morning."
"Last night? You mean you were here last night?" She came into the room. "But I didn't know it. I didn't hear you." She turned to the man. "Why didn't you tell me?"
He stood stolidly, only the leaning light alive in his eyes.
"Why didn't you?" Sybil stamped her foot.
"Never mind, Sybil," Jack went on easily. "We've been to your plays before. Better ring down the curtain. We understand the lines better than you do. How did you get your car back again?"
"I don't know. But if you'll look at its muddy blanket you'll know I told the truth. And I didn't drive all the way—I was towed a little of it. You might be interested to know that I'm stranded here. Pardon me, please, while I call a taxi."
"I'll call it for you," Jack suggested.

She tapped the floor with a high-heeled pump and Sue noticed that the flared skirt of her dress came almost to the floor on the sides, and swept away in front just enough to show the sheer chiffon of her stockings and the steel buckles that adorned her pumps.
"Your own tricks are catching you, Sybil," Jack's deep minor voice said at last. "Why did you have this man tell us the same story last night? He said this morning."
"Last night? You mean you were here last night?" She came into the room. "But I didn't know it. I didn't hear you." She turned to the man. "Why didn't you tell me?"
He stood stolidly, only the leaning light alive in his eyes.
"Why didn't you?" Sybil stamped her foot.
"Never mind, Sybil," Jack went on easily. "We've been to your plays before. Better ring down the curtain. We understand the lines better than you do. How did you get your car back again?"
"I don't know. But if you'll look at its muddy blanket you'll know I told the truth. And I didn't drive all the way—I was towed a little of it. You might be interested to know that I'm stranded here. Pardon me, please, while I call a taxi."
"I'll call it for you," Jack suggested.

THE sound of Sybil's voice
Sue and Jack both looked at the door. Jack replaced the telephone receiver leisurely and ignored her outstretched hands as he answered.
"If you're located I think our mission is done. Ready, Sue?" He handed the man a bill, thanked him, and stepped aside to let Sue pass, but Sybil blocked the door, her hazel eyes cool and scornful. She laughed a throaty contralto laugh.
"You think I'm being melodramatic, don't you? I'm not, though. I did call you from the cabin, and right afterwards I got so frightened I managed to get this far. I tried to watch your car, but nobody came. And then, just now, I heard your voice. Rather a belated rescue party, wasn't it?"
She stood in the doorway, slim and straight and regal, and even Sue admitted that the wine-red dress of flat crepe, with its long flared skirt and tucked-in blouse, and the matching hat whose draped brim was smartly long in back, gave her a touch of sophistication that held the interest. Sue was conscious that her skirt and sweater and coat and her mere old sports things. She wished that Sybil could see her in her new ensemble.
Jack looked away unseeing and did not glance at Sybil while she talked. His lips were closed firmly and his chin increased its stubborn set. He made no comment, when she finished, either because of chivalry, inborn, would not permit it, or because he preferred to leave the situation without comment.
"Well, say something," Sybil said at last, amusedly contemptuous. "I can prove my story by this man. Isn't that true?"
He nodded sullenly.
"Then why didn't you want anyone to know where you were this morning?" Jack asked.
"Because I was furious when no one came last night. I thought it wasn't any of your business now!" She tapped the floor with a high-heeled pump and Sue noticed that the flared skirt of her dress came almost to the floor on the sides, and swept away in front just enough to show the sheer chiffon of her stockings and the steel buckles that adorned her pumps.

Lawrence Cagers Play Last Home Game Tonight

VIKINGS TO MEET MARQUETTE QUINT AT ALEXANDER GYM

Frosh Play Menasha in Preliminary Game Wrestlers Battle Green Bay

LAWRENCE college basketball team will wind up its home season tonight in a game with Marquette university of Milwaukee at Alexander gymnasium. The Vikes have about four more games on their 1930 schedule but all are "on the road."

A sport program featuring three events will be on tap for Lawrence fans tonight. The first event of the evening will be a basketball game between the freshmen and Menasha high school, and will begin at exactly 7 o'clock. A large contingent of Menasha fans are expected to see the game and the Menasha high school hand will be on hand, all decked out in uniforms.

The preliminary game will probably be over at 7:45 and mats will be placed on the gym floor and members of the Viking wrestling team will try their skill with members of the Green Bay "Y" team. Two bouts will be staged at a time so the exhibition will not prolong the evening's entertainment longer than necessary.

THE FIRST TIME

When Jerry Slavik, veteran guard on the Lawrence college basketball squad, failed to see action in the Lawrence-Ripon encounter at Appleton last week night was the first time in his basketball career that he failed to play at least a part of a game. Slavik, who captured the Vikings last season, played basketball in the grades at Elgin, Ill., and was a member of the championship Elgin prep team which carried off Illinois honors in 1925. He also watched the entire Lawrence-Carroll game Wednesday night from the bench.

The Lawrence-Marquette game is due to begin about 8:15 or 8:30, according to Lawrence athletic authorities, depending entirely on how long the wrestling bouts take.

Confident as a result of their showing in the last three games, the Vikings are all primed to humble Marquette tonight. Long workouts have been indulged in in the last couple days and a short scrimmage session Monday night could be the preliminary work.

Although Coach A. C. Denney has made no official indication of his lineup chances he will send the same squad onto the floor that performed against Carroll last Wednesday at Waukesha.

In that event Frank Schneller will be at center, Biggers and Remmel and Rasmussen will be at forward, and Paul Fiesch and Bud Pierce at guards. The combination has shown steady improvement in recent games and it goes into tonight's game with the same spirit it took the floor against Carroll, an interesting evening's entertainment is on hand.

Coach Cord Lape of Marquette has been shifting his lineup about in recent games but it's almost positive he will start Andrew, former Shawano school star, at center, Capt. Jimmy O'Donnell at one forward and McElligott at the other. The guards will be Joe King and Shipley with Neil Gordon, formerly of Kaukauna, a reserve.

Marquette has been traveling a fairly successful route this season winning a majority of its games. The Hilltoppers had two games with Wisconsin, one at Madison and one at Milwaukee, the Badgers winning both.

Lawrence college also will play host to high school basketball players from three high schools in this section. Besides the Menasha five the Vikes will have as their guests, Fond du Lac high and Weyauwega high cagers.

FARMER LODGE IS BEATEN BY PRIMO

Giant Italian Knocks Out His Seventh Victim in Second Round

New Orleans—(P)—Farmer Lodge of Minnesota is the seventh victim of Primo Canera's campaign through American prize rings. The mammoth Italian knocked out Lodge in the second round of their scheduled ten round but here last night. Lodge was the fourth of Canera's opponents in this country to last two rounds. Cowboy Owens, Buster Martin and John O. Erickson were the others while Big Boy Peterson, Elzeir Roux and Big Jim Sigmund failed to survive the first round.

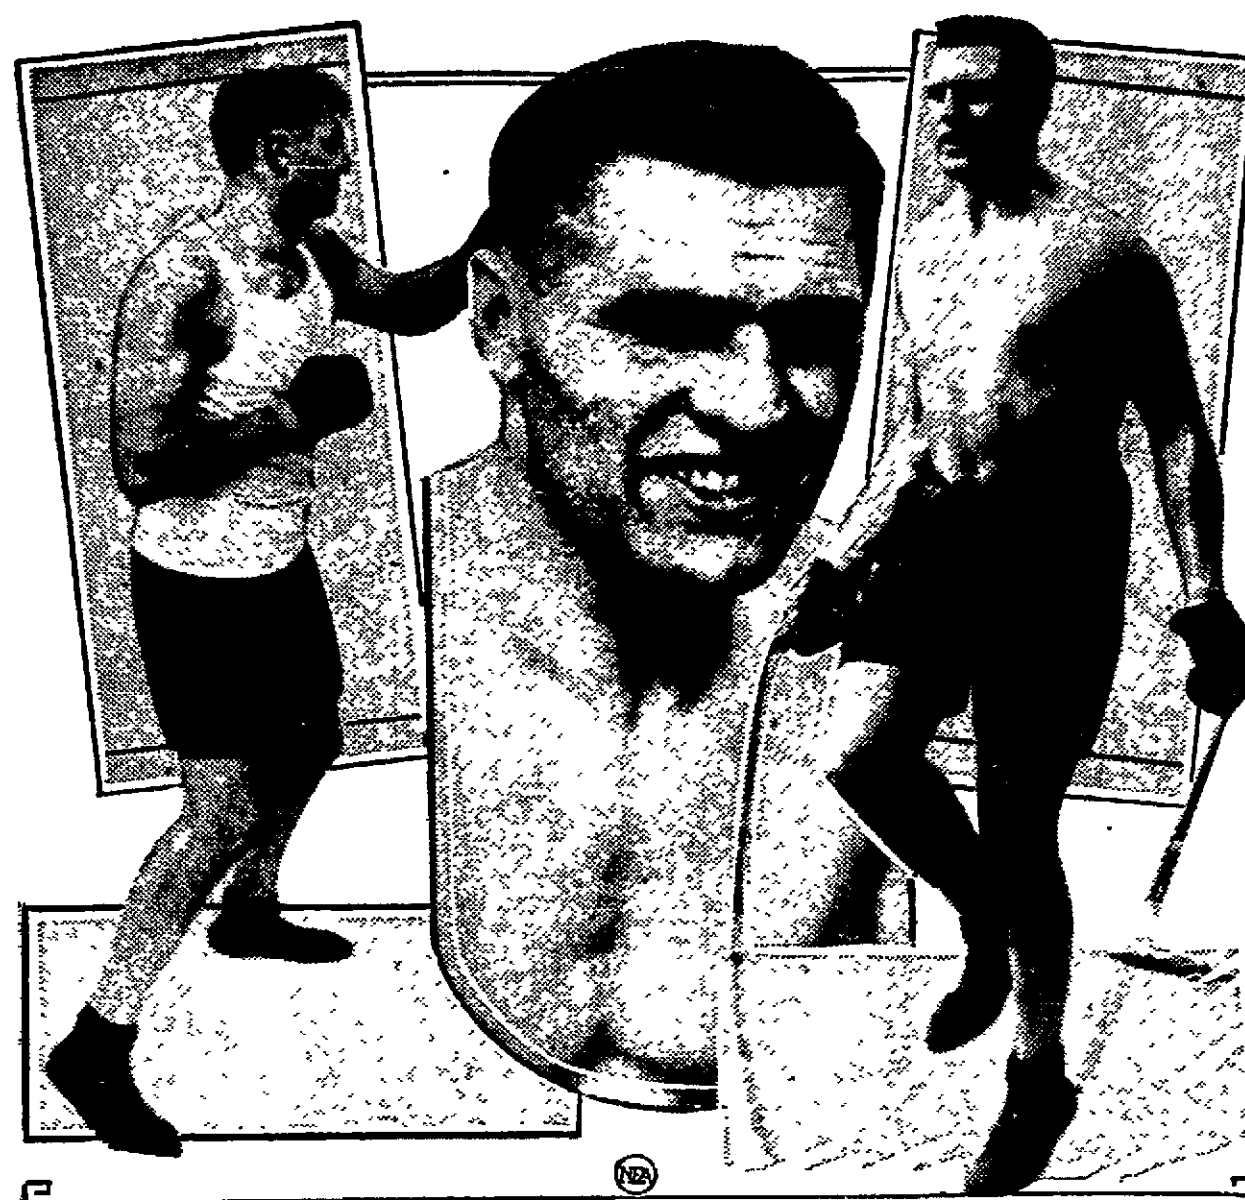

Canera appeared nervous as Lodge clinched repeatedly at the start of the fight, but after the Farmer landed one blow, a glancing left to the head, the Italian opened up and forced him for a short count just before the bell. In the second Canera sent Lodge to the mat for a count of seven with a smashing right to the body and then ended the encounter with a short right uppercut.

Lodge weighed 265, Canera 275.

TWO GAMES IN "Y" BOYS LEAGUE TONIGHT

Two games are to be played in the Oiler's "Y" league at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday evening at the Alexander gym. The games will show the Roach Sport shop versus the Vocational school team and the "Y" versus the Fourth ward Bears. The four teams are making their first appearance on the floor with opening of the second half the season.

Scott Prepares for Thursday's Bout

It's train time all the time for Phil Scott, sometimes called "England's heavyweight horizontal champion," shown above in the first pictures taken at his training camp at Miami Beach, Fla. At the left you see the belligerent British as he struck a fighting pose calculated to strike consternation into the heart of Jack Sharkey, whom he will fight at Miami Thursday night. At the right Phil is seen in the role of a skipper—a role in which he is more or less familiar to fight fans.

N. B. A. Has Something To Say To Mr. Canera

BY FRANCIS J. POWERS

CHICAGO—(CPA)—The writer is reliably informed that the National Boxing association soon may have a message for Signor Primo Canera, the "Ambling Alp" of Venice.

The National Boxing association that watches the business of modified murder with a more or less critical eye is of the opinion that Signor Primo is a big boy now and should quit playing with young fellows who have not attained their growth or who are prematurely affected with weak ankles and slippery heels.

In other words the association wants Primo to restrain his desire to go wandering about the country slapping saps sappier than nature ever intended they should be and start picking on lads his own size. It is said that a recommendation has been made to Thomas Donahue of Hartford, Conn., who is chairman of the association's championship committee, that Canera be sicked on some of the better heavyweights of the game. Canera has popped over all of the legitimate setups and any further business with the push-overs would be looked upon with considerable suspicion.

The dear old public, which frequently is childish in the expenditure of its money, would like to see the Signor in their making with the boys who have had or will have a chance at the heavyweight title.

There's Otto Von Porat for instance, a tall and powerful fellow who can hit as hard as any heavyweight in the business; or Johnny Risko the blubbery baker from Cleveland who has destroyed the ambitions of many hopefuls. John's rapping, tearing style might do Primo a lot of good but would satisfy the public no end.

Or a bout between Canera and Paulino, the old beak of the basque country would be a satisfying spectacle. Primo might have a lot of trouble in smacking Paulino who fights from a crouch that reminds one of a fiddler crab. In fact he might not smack him at all. Victorio Campolo, the Argentine gaucho, might be a fit foe for Canera if he were to fight him in any sort of style, when he meets the baker at Miami beach.

There are any number of thick ears who might be selected to fight Canera with some chance of giving the big bulk a battle. Of course one severe slap from Primo's right paw would put any of them down but Canera's chance of landing that slap would be considerably lessened.

Canera's managers might be hesitant about permitting their baroque ticket to engage those chaplains on the grounds that with less than 25 fights behind him he has too little knowledge of the sour science. But Canera is an unusual fellow and should be willing to exchange his lack of boxing ability for some of the superhuman attributes a generous nature tossed his way.

Results of the various events were:

20 yard free style—Frank (S.) Fredericks (J.) Klein (S.) Time: 11 seconds.

40 yard free style—Dobberstein (J.) Gainer (J.) Frank (S.) Time: 21 3/5 seconds.

100 yard free style—Gainer (J.) Varner (S.) DeYoung (S.) Time: 1 minute, 15 1/5 seconds.

20 yard back stroke—Johns (S.) Fredericks (J.) Time: 11 seconds.

20 yard breast stroke—Wilson (J.) Zuehlke (S.) Carnes (J.) Time: 13 2/5 seconds.

Relay—Won by juniors. Time: 40 seconds.

Diving—Carnes (J.) Gainer (J.) Peterson (S.)

ONLY THREE CHANGES AT STATE PIN MEET

Oshkosh—(P)—While good scores were chalked up Monday night in the state pin meet here, only three were high enough to place among the leaders in any division.

W. Krueske dropped the maples for the most brilliant of yesterday's exhibitions, tying for seventh place in the singles with M. Pfeller of Milwaukee who collected 657. Krueske and his partner, J. Neighbors of Milwaukee, bowed 1,359 to slip into third place in the doubles. In the singles Krueske shot 199, 24 and 211 and in the doubles he tallied 200, 212, and 207.

The third change came in the doubles when J. Mueller and G. Bergeron rated tenth with 1230. Each had a 244 game.

Louisville, Ky.—Pat Freeman, Louisville, knocked out Billy Davis, Indianapolis, (4); Rip Wilson, Louisville outpointed Paul Anderson, Indianapolis, (10); Tuck Hennings, Jeffersonville, Ind., knocked out Jackie Coogan, St. Louis, (6).

KIMBERLY CAGERS WIN AND LOSE GAME

Drop Decision to Crystal Falls and Then Beat Niagara Badgers

Kimberly—The Kimberly Club's basketball team won one game and lost one on its trip up to northern Wisconsin last Saturday and Sunday. Saturday evening the Kimberly cagers battled the strong Crystal Falls team on even terms until the final seconds of play when a foul was called on Gossens' for jumping to soon. When Coach Courchane attempted to talk to the referee, the official called a technical foul on Courchane. These two fouls proved costly as the Falls team made both tries to win the game by a 33 to 31 count. Gossens was high scorer for the Kimberly team making seven field goals. Chambers of the Ramblers was high scorer with four field goals and five gift shots.

Sunday afternoon the Niagara Badgers and Kimberly staged a battle royal which had to go into an overtime period to decide the winner. The score was close throughout the game, first one team making a basket only to see its opponent even the score with a field goal. The sea sawing continued until the last minutes of play and when the timer announced the end of the last period both teams had 39 points. In the extra five minutes Gossens staged an exhibition and with the help of his team mates sank five field goals to give Kimberly the game by a 49 to 39 count.

Nothing has happened thus far to alter the one-sided aspect of the American main event, if anything, the impressive character of Jack Sharkey's last workout with the gloves yesterday strengthened belief that he will polish off the lanky Scott. Betting has been conspicuous by its absence. Roughly, the odds today were 4 to 1 that Sharkey wins by a knockout inside four rounds.

There was a strange and somewhat pathetic contrast to the conclusion of glove workouts by the two principals yesterday. Sharkey, as went at his sparring mates with an especial display of savagery. Rather than appearing stale, he seemed keenly on edge. The crowd gathered at the Miami Beach Kennel club was enthusiastic and so were the spectators. A while later, over in Miami, as Scott finished his drill and clumped a free escape to his improvised dressing room, onlookers, undemonstrative, straggled out. Only the trainer was upstairs to greet Phil, along with one newspaperman.

Phil moneylaid replies to a few questions and sat in a chair with a somewhat blank and emotionless face. No crowd, no joshing, no spirit of impending conquest was there. It may not be significant, but the comparison between the rival camps seemed typical of just how the fight is regarded.

The influx of fight fans from the north has been nothing like expected, but special trains and extra accommodations on the regular Lewis nevertheless have brought a substantial number. Hotel space in Miami as well as Miami Beach has been at a premium for days, with rates ranging as high as $5 a day, depending on the exclusiveness of the hotel.

Toronto—Steve Rocco, Toronto, outpointed Pablo Dano, Philippines, (6); Frenchy Belanger, Toronto, knocked out Kid Lencio, Mexico, (2).

CUB CONTINGENT START FOR COAST

Lester Bell, Third Baseman Obtained from Boston Among Group

Chicago—(P)—The second group of the National League champion Chicago Cubs, under the direction of Dan Cahill, an unofficial of the club, today headed for Catalina island, to join battersmen and others who composed the first group a week ago. Cahill, a Cub enthusiast and member of the Chicago fire department, had with him Riggs Stephenson, Hazen (Kiki) Cuyler, Lewis (Hack) Wilson, regular outfielders, Woody English and Charlie Tolsen, members of the 1929 Cubs. Danny Taylor, recruit outfielder, Herman Jones and Lester Bell, obtained from the Boston Braves, on whom Manager Joe McCarthy is depending to fill the gap at third base.

On the island off the California coast, the Cubs took another light workout yesterday and came up with the first casualty of the season. Al Warlick, recruit pitcher, was struck on the forehead by a bat during hitting practice and was sent to the infirmary where three stitches were required to close the wound.

GIANT SQUAD PLAYS ITS FIRST 9 INNINGS

San Antonio, Tex.—(P)—Jack Scott's Tamales have taken the measure of Sam Leslie's Tortillas, 15 to 10, in the first bout of the New York Giants training season.

Scott, playing in the outfield, smashed out five hits in 25 innings at bat while Lesbe was out far behind him with four out of four. Six pitchers lobbed the ball up during the nine inning fray and gave up 26 hits. Of the 23 players in the game only five failed to hit safely at least one. Parmelee got the first homer of the year.

Philadelphia—Paulie Walker, Trenton, N. J., and Sergeant Sammy Baker, New York, drew, (5).

SHARKEY, SCOTT FIGHT WILL NOT BE BROADCASTED

Boston Gob Appears in Great Condition in Last Workout for Thursday

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Writer
MIAMI, Fla.—Although the strongest kind of pressure has been brought to bear, the Madison Square Garden corporation today apparently has resisted all efforts to bring about a reversal of its decision not to broadcast the Sharkey-Scott and Campolo-Risiko fight show Thursday night.

The impression that garden managers would change their minds and permit the fight to be made out of the arena to the rest of the world, gained before information was received that the National Broadcasting company was sending two men from New York.

It was learned, in addition, that strong influence had been brought to bear, not only by American Radio interests, newspapers and listeners, but also by foreign broadcasting concerns anxious to obtain hook-ups because of international character of the bouts.

England, represented by Phil Scott, and Argentina, by Victorio Campolo, in the two main bouts of the evening, especially have been anxious to arrange for the blow-by-blow returns by radio.

However, William F. Carey, president and spokesman for the Garden directors, said before taking a train for New York that there would be no broadcast, under any circumstances.

"We made our decision and will stick to it," Mr. Carey declared. "We have advertised in newspapers and by other means throughout the country that there will be no broadcast. We have sold tickets on that definite understanding. Manifestly, it would be unfair, to put it mildly, to change our minds now."

"You can say positively there will be no broadcast. That applies to any local station as well as to any national hookup."

Last year, the Sharkey-Stribling fight was broadcast by a National chain, with Bill Mundy of Atlanta at Graham, McNamee of New York at the microphone. The decision to broadcast that fight was somewhat belated, giving rise to the belief that the same thing would be done this year, but Mr. Carey explained that at no time last winter was any official announcement made that there would be no radio broadcasts.

NOT "OUT OF RED" Otherwise, the second battle of the palms is only three days off, with the box office making a gallant struggle to get the enterprise "out of the red" and the principal combatants through with intensive training, going through the motions to keep in shape until the gong sends them into action.

Nothing has happened thus far to alter the one-sided aspect of the American main event, if anything, the impressive character of Jack Sharkey's last workout with the gloves yesterday strengthened belief that he will polish off the lanky Scott. Betting has been conspicuous by its absence. Roughly, the odds today were 4 to 1 that Sharkey wins by a knockout inside four rounds.

There was a strange and somewhat pathetic contrast to the conclusion of glove workouts by the two principals yesterday. Sharkey, as went at his sparring mates with an especial display of savagery. Rather than appearing stale, he seemed keenly on edge. The crowd gathered at the Miami Beach Kennel club was enthusiastic and so were the spectators. A while later, over in Miami, as Scott finished his drill and clumped a free escape to his improvised dressing room, onlookers, undemonstrative, straggled out. Only the trainer was upstairs to greet Phil, along with one newspaperman.

Phil moneylaid replies to a few questions and sat in a chair with a somewhat blank and emotionless face. No crowd, no joshing, no spirit of impending conquest was there. It may not be significant, but the comparison between the rival camps seemed typical of just how the fight is regarded.

The influx of fight fans from the north has been nothing like expected, but special trains and extra accommodations on the regular Lewis nevertheless have brought a substantial number. Hotel space in Miami as well as Miami Beach has been at a premium for days, with rates ranging as high as $5 a day, depending on the exclusiveness of the hotel.

Toronto—Steve Rocco, Toronto, outpointed Pablo Dano, Philippines, (6); Frenchy Belanger, Toronto, knocked out Kid Lencio, Mexico, (2).

Match Bowling Games

ALYING all its forces in the third and final game, William's Special won a match bowling game over the weekend by a score of 245 to 210, despite the fact the first two games were lost. The difference in the last game was 129 pins and gave an advantage that offset the 21 and 39 pin defeat in the first two games.

Another match game on Appleton alley over the weekend saw the Wisconsin Michigan Power carry over bowling team beat the Onondaga Power Club Service five by a score of 2341 and 2165. The invading five failed to win a single game.

BADGERS HUMBLE ILLINI CAGERS AT CHAMPAIGN MONDAY

ILLINI CAGERS AT CHAMPAIGN MONDAY

Last Period Rally Gives Fans a Thrill but Falls Short

CHAMPAIGN, ILL.—(P)—Staving off a desperate last period rally, Wisconsin last night defeated Illinois 23 to 17, and moved back into undisputed possession of second place in the Western conference basketball championship race. Illinois, showing the effects of its terrific battle with Northwestern Saturday night, was far off on shooting and failed to score a field goal until eight minutes of the second period had elapsed.

The Badgers played their usual careful, delayed offensive game, and set up a nine point lead in the first half. Eddie Kaval led the late rally which cut Wisconsin's margin from 14 points to six.

Holding Illinois to a pair of free throws by Bud Harper in the first period, Wisconsin quickly worked up a long lead. Chmielewski, shifted from guard to forward, connected for two field goals in the opening period, and Mattheus got another one. Foster, Wisconsin's center, got two of his four free throws and Johnny Paul dropped in two more to account for Badger scoring in the first half.

Chmielewski opened the second period with a field goal, and Mills got a free throw for Illinois. Foster made two foul shots and Faber scored from the field, before Bartholomew, forward, made Illinois' first field goal, a long one.

Foster added a foul goal for Wisconsin, and May came back with a field goal for Illinois. Mattheus scored from the foul stripe and Foster dropped in a field goal, bringing the count to 21 to

BOBBY JONES IN FINE CONDITION FOR GOLF SEASON
Atlanta Intends to Keep Practicing Until He Leaves England

Atlanta, Ga.—(AP)—Down to his best playing weight, tanned, hardened, and shooting under golf than usual this early in a season, Bobby Jones, national champion, is ready for his most intensive campaign of recent years. A program of indoor and outdoor sports, intermingled with a little rest, has kept the Atlanta ace in near perfect trim throughout the winter. Now the scales at 155 pounds, he is tipped.

The stocky champion, who has won the major crown goldfodder outside the British amateur, plans to hit in at least four rounds of golf a week here—his home course—everywhere until he sails for Europe April 1. He may enter the Augusta, Ga., open on March 31 and April 1. Jones has his eyes set on the British amateur title this year. His tentative schedule also includes the British open in addition to the Walker cup matches, and the American open at a amateur.

With only a few changes to test clubs this year, Bobby finished 2-hole grind at Savannah just one behind Horton Smith, and six strokes ahead of Bobby Cruikshank, who took second money among the pros. But for a bad second round of 75 and a poor putt on the sixteenth hole the last journey he might have won the Savannah event.

Greens on the East Lake course are in bad condition as a result of an extremely long and early winter and Bobby has had to leave to recover his putting touch. Calamity Jane, his famous caddy, missed nearly a dozen 100-foot putts on each round at Savannah.

But his showing at Savannah served to inform the golfers of this country and Britain that Bobby needs a little more practice before he reaches the great form that has brought him many championships.

BLACK'S ORDERED OUT FOR PRACTICE
Catchers, Catchers and Infielders Ready for Grind at Ft. Meyers

Fort Myers, Fla.—(AP)—Connie Clark, major domo of the Philadelphia Athletics, ordered a fair sized squad of athletes to the ball yard today for the first spring practice. Counting regulars and rookies, but 20 players are in camp, with other delegation that has been conditioning at Hot Springs expected by the end of the week. Some of the regulars, eager to get going, are in the south today. Among them are a half dozen others, including Lefty Grove, arrived yesterday. The squad to date is made up of: Chas. Grove, Earnshaw, Ehmeke, Jones, Rommel, Mahaffey, Jones, Strick, Baker, Snider, Mahon, Lieb, and Supplee; Catchers: Cochran, Perkins and Mattow; Infielders: Keesey. Homer Suma is the 11th outfielder on hand, the champion's regular trio of Simmons, and Miller a part of the contingent still at Hot Springs with infielders Bishop, Boley and Dykes.

ODDER CRIPPLES ARE FAST COMING AROUND
Nearwater, Fla.—(AP)—News was almost bullish at the opening session of the Brooklyn Dodgers' spring training season.

Three invalids of 1929, Glenn Wright, Del Bissone and Jumbo Elliott, all apparently have recovered from the ailments that made them practically useless to the Dodgers last year. Wright was hopping the ball to first base with speed and accuracy, and there was no sign of the lame arm that kept him on the bench in 1929. Bissone, who underwent two operations during the winter, hit the home run of the season. Elliott, big left-hander, tossed up the ball practice and appeared in better condition than he has been at any time since the end of the 1929 season.

EVELAND ROOKIES ARE ALL BIG FELLOWS
New Orleans, La.—(AP)—The size of the Cleveland Indians' recruiting men has brought a glow of satisfaction to Manager Roger Peckinpaugh. With the exception of one, the rookies are all big fellows. All of the Indians' new pitchers are six-footers.

The first workout originally was scheduled for today, but yesterday's shine was too irresistible to let it keep him from the field. The Indians' new pitcher, who underwent two operations during the winter, hit the home run of the season. Elliott, big left-hander, tossed up the ball practice and appeared in better condition than he has been at any time since the end of the 1929 season.

ASK COOPERATION OF EMPLOYERS TO AID UNEMPLOYMENT
Advancement Association Also Hears Report on Basket Factory

Kaukauna—About 50 members of the Kaukauna Advancement Association met at 6:30 Monday evening at Hotel Kaukauna, discussed the unemployment situation in the city and the raising of more money for the basket factory, and reviewed final plans for the Mid-Winter fair. Vice-president Malachi Ryan presided.

William Ganter, speaking in behalf of the unemployed, asking for cooperation on the part of the employers to the extent of hiring help from the city in preference to out-of-city residents. A lengthy discussion was held on the matter. The problem of unemployment also was discussed at a meeting of the city council recently. A committee representing the unemployed will meet with committees appointed by the council and the Advancement Association to study the matter.

In many instances it is impossible to hire Kaukauna men as some work requires skilled labor that cannot be obtained here. It also was pointed out that some men are hired out of the city when men could not be obtained from town and that it would be unfair to lay off the out-of-town men to give Kaukauna men work.

The labor situation in Kaukauna is about the same as that faced by many other cities. It cannot be relieved entirely by hiring home town men, as it is said. If each city were to employ only persons living there, a situation would soon arise that would leave more people out of work than there are at the present time, it was pointed out.

REPORTS ON FACTORY
C. E. Taught submitted a report on the progress of the basket factory. He said that about $2,000 more is needed to put the rest of the plant into operation. It will employ twelve as many persons when the production is increased, he said. This would help to relieve the unemployment situation here, he pointed out. At the present time the plant has a pay roll of over $1,000 a month.

W. P. Hagman, head of the Mid-Winter fair committees, reported that everything is in readiness for the fair. He stated that the list of premiums donated by local merchants is larger and better than in the past, and he thanked them for the co-operation.

STUDENTS WILL GET VACATIONS THIS WEEK
Kaukauna—High school students will enjoy a two-day recess this week with the advent of the seventh annual Mid-Winter fair Thursday and Friday. The school will be used for exhibits, making it impossible to hold classes. Work on the erection of booths for the school exhibits has been started. Entries will be made Wednesday afternoon.

DEBATERS WILL MEET STURGEON BAY SOON
Kaukauna—Kaukauna high school debaters will meet Sturgeon Bay and Shawano high school in the next triangle of debates on the installment buying question. Up to the present time the two local teams have won all their debates. They have defeated Algoma, Sturgeon Bay, Waupaca and Menasha high schools.

SCOUTS WILL DIRECT AT MID-WINTER FAIR
Kaukauna—Kaukauna boy scouts met Monday evening in the Park school. Plans were made for watching booths and giving directions at the Mid-Winter fair Thursday and Friday. The scouts had charge of these duties at the fair last year.

"NO FOOLIN' " PIRATE BOSS TELLS CHARGES
Paso Robles, Calif.—(AP)—Violation of the club rules will not be tolerated and it is going to be tough for second offenders. Manager, Jewel Lins has advised his Pittsburgh Pirates in training here.

The squad had a busy day yesterday, playing football, fielding grounders and indulging in calisthenics. They faced the same program today. The pitchers were allowed to work a bit harder, but were warned against "fancy" hurling.

Sonnenberg Wins Milwaukee Fight
Milwaukee—(AP)—Dynamite Gus Sonnenberg, recognized in some parts of the country as the heavy-weight wrestling champion, successfully defended his title here last night against Ernest Schaeppgen. Milwaukee. Sonnenberg won in straight falls.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
NICK ALTHROCK amazed everybody when he was winning an exhibition game down south some years ago. He stood behind the pitcher, turned his back to him and looked into center field and called every ball and strike perfectly. The pitcher discovered the second baseman was hitting him in the back. Nick was hitting him in the back. Nick was hitting him in the back.

MRS. THOMAS JENNINGS
"I never imagined that any one medicine could do what Konjola did for me," said Mrs. Thomas Jennings, 544 Fourth Ave., East, Cedar Rapids. "For years I suffered from stomach, kidney and liver trouble, and constipation. I had practically no appetite and when I did eat I suffered from indigestion. It was fifteen months of the time I had terrible dizzy spells, and my back ached continually. Added to this, I had rheumatism in my hands and knees."

"A trial of Konjola proved that it was different from all I had tried. I have taken Konjola only a short time but it already has put me well along on the road to health. The rheumatic pains have practically disappeared. I have a good appetite, and I am glad to recommend Konjola to all who suffer."

Konjola is sold in Appleton at Schmitz Bros. Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

EARLY MATURING CORN READY FOR FARMERS
New Haven, Conn.—(AP)—Canada Learning, a new crossed corn that will double fatal and costly early frosts, will be on the market this spring for the first time.

Evolving the cross was a process of years. It was accomplished by Dr. Donald F. Jones of the Connecticut agricultural experiment station by inbreeding and crossing early maturing Canada yellow flint with the heavy producing Learning dent.

The new variety has hard, bright, amber kernels and matures in 100 to 110 days. Often it may be cut and shocked before that. It produces a tall, straight, broad stalk, eight to nine feet high. In a 107 foot test it produced 69.5 bushels to the acre, five more than its nearest competitor.

Reports for fiscal year ending June 30, 1929, show state and commonwealth railways of Australia are operated at greater loss each year.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER BOTH PRAISE "DRECO"
Says "Rheumatic Pains Soon Disappeared After Taking Dreco."

"I was in a general rundown condition when I first started to take this new root and herb medicine, 'Dreco.' I had sharp rheumatic pains all through my body and was not able to get any rest at night. I felt tired and worn out during the day. I tried several different medicines, but they were not strong enough for my particular case."

"Dreco was recommended to me by my daughter, Mrs. Frank Boettcher. She says Dreco rid her of all her ailments, so I started to take 'Dreco' too. This medicine went straight to the seat of my trouble. In three weeks' time my rheumatic pains were all gone and I was rid of those terrible headaches. Get a bottle of Dreco today and you will have me a thousand times for this good advice." This statement was given by Mrs. H. A. Grant, Route 4, Box 12, Stevens Point, Wis.

CHEESE FACTORY PUTS OUT 253,374 POUNDS

Seymour—Twenty eight patrons delivered 2,678,204 pounds of milk to the Plainview cheese factory, route 3, the past year, which produced 253,374 pounds of cheese. STUDENT ILLUSIONS DIE THROUGH ANALYSIS
Boulder, Col.—(AP)—That they may see themselves as others see them, 14 students at the University of Colorado have enrolled in a "personal psychology" class.

Their aim is acute analysis of one another, anonymously, for grading as to personality. Twenty-nine characteristics are considered, including neatness, business, bluffing, good posture, health, friendliness, alertness, conversation, tactfulness, honesty, humor and severity.

"This system teaches the students to face facts and destroy harmful illusions," says Professor Thomas H. Howell. "The goal of any real individual is to know the truth about himself, regardless."

ITCHING ENDS WHEN ZEMO TOUCHES SKIN
—thousands say. It's wonderful the way soothing, cooling Zemo brings relief to skin which itches and burns.

Even in most severe cases, itching disappears almost as soon as Zemo touches the tender and inflamed surface. To draw out local infection and help to clear away unsightly blemishes, we know of nothing better than invisible Zemo. Always keep this family antiseptic on hand. Use it freely. It's safe as can be. 50c, 60c and $1.00. All dealers. adv.

MOTHERS, MIX THIS AT HOME FOR A BAD COUGH
You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough or chest cold. It takes but a moment to mix and costs little, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any drugstore. Pour this into a pint bottle; then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The Pinex part thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, loosens the hardened phlegm, and soothes away the inflammation. Part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and thus helps inwardly to throw out the whole trouble with surprising ease.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

TOUGH HOPS ESSENTIAL, PLAN BUILDER ASSERTS
Glendale, Calif.—(AP)—Long, hazardous flights are essential to advancement of flying, concludes Allan Loughhead after 15 years spent developing fast airplanes.

But this does not mean indiscriminate ocean flying, he adds.

Long hops, Loughhead says give builders an accurate record of performance and stability. They determine what weight can be carried without danger. Also, it is learned how a plane acts in the upper reaches with a full load.

"Only through these experiments can transcontinental and intercontinental passenger service be developed," he asserts.

Local and general weather conditions can be known only in the way of long flights especially over long distances. Loughhead says that a single non-stop transcontinental flight in Harold Gatty's plane, the Spirit of St. Louis, was a part of the upper air work.

Aviators know that that means a long flight. Loughhead says that a single non-stop transcontinental flight in Harold Gatty's plane, the Spirit of St. Louis, was a part of the upper air work.

HARRISON GRANGE HAS MONTHLY MEET

Vote to Become Affiliated With Egg Producers' Association

Darboy—The Harrison Star Grange held its semi-monthly meeting at Darboy hall Friday evening. A report on the growth of the grange was presented. In a talk by Charles Gear, master of the grange it was pointed out that in placing the Harrison grange into the fourth ranks of the state organization, is due to the fact that the papers of the Fox river valley have given much space to the activities of the grange.

The Debiture plan has the unanimous endorsement of the national and the state granges. The Harrison Star Grange has given its sanction to this plan for bringing equalized tariff benefits to agriculture. Mr. Bruhl has been delegated to communicate with members of congress and United States senators urging them to support this measure.

Snapdragons Are One Of Royal Families Of Garden

Snapdragons or, as they are botanically known and catalogued, antirrhinums, are one of the royal families of the garden. Particularly is this true in the majestic giant forms known as the maximus class which rise to a height of three feet. These have become staples in the greenhouses as well as garden favorites.

For the garden the older tall class, majus, is better than the giant types which cannot make the magnificent development in the open they do in the greenhouses where temperature and moisture are under complete control. For all-around purposes the semi-tall sorts are best, coming into bloom more quickly than the taller varieties. There is also a dwarf type suitable for bordering planting of the taller kinds.

There are scores of named varieties and new varieties are introduced each year until the gardener is bewildered in making a selection. The tall sorts need staking and even when grown under the pinching out system, that is allowing them to make a dozen leaves and then pinching out the tops, they need firm staking. The pinching causes them to branch from the axils of each leaf and the plant forms a symmetrical bush covered from the top to the ground with bloom. Many professional gardeners prefer to grow the giant types treated in this manner to the half dwarf bedding sorts. If grown in quantity the task of staking is a burdensome one.

The snapdragons give the finest silver pink to be found in any of the annuals. There is a bewildering array of pink and rose shades and now that blended coloring is much the fashion the salmon, terra cotta and flame-colored varieties all with much yellow in their composition are very popular.

They need an early start to give a long season in the garden and the seed should be grown cool for best results as a little too much heat sends the seedlings spinning up. Grown cool they make fine stock plants for transplanting. As plants are on sale at all dealers a good supply is always available even if one doesn't wish to grow his own seedlings.

FAITH NECESSARY, STUDENTS ARE TOLD

Object of College Is Way of Life, Dr. H. M. Wriston Declares

"The object of college is not a vocation; it is a way of life," said Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president of Lawrence college, in a chapel address yesterday morning. President Wriston's talk was divided into two parts, each division concerning a major student problem.

Taking the ninth chapter of the Gospel of St. John as the text for the first division of his speech, Dr. Wriston pointed out that in many situations we ask all the impertinent questions and do not act upon the pertinent element. He illustrated this point with life experiences of well known men. Quality of workmanship and a high degree of adaptability were stressed.

The second part of the speech concerned students, who, assailed by the doubts that accompany the study of science, have closed the avenue of faith, and have become spiritually blind. "You take science on faith," he pointed out. "The credit foundation of business is faith, then take the thing that is the core of your life on faith."

"If you are ever going to arrive at an understanding of daily life, you'll come to it only by the avenue of faith."

STOCK PRICES FALL IN SYMPATHY WITH COMMODITY MARKET

Simmons Shares Fall to Low for Year Under Selling Pressure

BY STANLEY W. PRENOSIL
New York—(AP)—A fresh collapse in wheat and cotton prices to new low levels for the season, coupled with a sharp break in rubber futures, unsettled the stock market again today after an early interval of strength which was featured by a brisk demand for the public utilities and a selected assortment of specialties.

Wall street apparently was paying more attention to the commodity markets than it has at any time in recent years, many speculators temporarily switching their activities to the grain and cotton markets in an effort to catch the swings.

Some of the early selling in steel shares was based on unconfirmed reports that the recovery in the industry had been checked and that a slight falling off in operations was likely.

A renewal of selling pressure against Simmons Co. carried that issue down more than 4 points to a new low level for the year, below $73 a share, which contrasts with a high of $158 last year. Atchafalaya, New York Central and International Harvester sold down 3 to 4 points. Auburn Auto dropped 5, Bullard Co. 5 1/4 and J. I. Case 3 1/4.

New York—(AP)—The first of the series of four regional savings conferences to be held this year under the auspices of the savings bank division of the American Bankers association will take place at Tulsa, Okla., March 5 and 6. Bankers from Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana, Georgia, Kansas, Kentucky, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, North Carolina, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee and Texas are expected to be in attendance. The second conference scheduled for March 20 and 21, at New York City; the third in Detroit on March 27 and 28, and the fourth at Salt Lake City, May 27 and 28.

Stockholders of Commonwealth Edison company have approved an increase in the authorized common stock from $150,000,000 to $200,000,000.

The Omaha retail store of Montgomery Ward and company has been closed; inadequate building facilities with which to do business was given as the reason for closing.

An issue of $10,000,000 "one year" per cent sinking fund gold debentures with common stock purchase warrants, of the Crown Zellerbach Corporation is expected to be offered soon by a New York and mid-western banking group.

NARROW MOVEMENT IN DAY'S BOND MARKET

New York—(AP)—Movements in bond prices showed familiar narrowness in the early trading today. A few investment rails gained close to half a point in response to better buying which appeared coincident with an easier undertone in time money. United States governments were dull and virtually unchanged.

Wabash 4-12 1/2, Pennsylvania 4-3 1/4, N. Y. Central, Pacific guaranteed and Nickel plate 6 made slight gains in the latter grade credit group. Among the speculative rails, there was a sharp rally in Iowa Central issues, the first 6's arising about 3 1/2 points while the certificates of deposit claimed nearly 3. Convertible rails were quiet.

Foreign obligations held firm, finding the market somewhat less active than yesterday.

RADIO-TELEGRAPH SERVICE STARTED BY UNIVERSAL CO.

Organization Is Licensed to Utilize 28 of 40 Channels

BY ROBERT MACK
(Copyright, 1932, by Cons. Press)
Washington—(CPA)—With promises of faster service and lower rates, the Universal Wireless Communications Co., begins radio-telegraph commercial service between 12 cities in direct competition with the Western Union and Postal.

Licensed by the federal radio commission to utilize 28 of the 40 channels allocated it in 1928, the company is making a belated start to link the entire nation by radio-telegraph with the world's first comprehensive radio-telegraph enterprise.

It was to have begun service between the initial dozen cities on Jan. 1, but litigation involving these channels, for which many commercial interests have scrambled, prevented it.

Fifteen words for the price of ten, is the slogan of Universal in traffic-getting. It has not yet launched its public campaign for business, although it is understood that many corporations have contracted with it for the handling of their internal communications.

According to Dr. John Nathanson, general representative, Universal begins service between New York, Chicago, Buffalo, Cincinnati, Detroit, Springfield, Ill., Columbus, Dayton and Akron, O., Peoria, Ill., and Trenton and New Brunswick, N. J., immediately. The New York-Chicago circuit has been in operation about a month.

MUST HURRY PROGRAM
By the end of the year Universal contemplates completion of its program for 50 stations in 25 cities. Under the terms of its grant it must have its entire program covering 110 cities completed by the end of 1931.

The commission has just granted to Universal licenses for 26 of the cleared channels it had awarded the company, to supplement the two it has been using on the New York-Chicago service. Heretofore, the commission has held that by virtue of a stay order issued by the court

SULPHURIC ACID IN AIR CAUSED BY SMOKE

New York—(P)—Some graphic pictures of the powerful corrosive properties of smoke were given the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers today by F. L. Wolf, Mansfield, Ohio engineer.

He said common coal smoke mixes with vapor in the air to produce sulphuric acid. No cases were reported of human beings affected by the minute quantities of this powerful acid, but metals upon which it has a chance to accumulate sometimes suffer.

Of appeals, here, it would be unable during the pendency of short wave litigation before this court, to license any of the frequencies for commercial operation, either to Universal, Pess Wireless, Inc., which was granted 20, Radio Corporation of America, assigned 15, and Western Radio Telegraph company, assigned 5.

It finally evolved a means of complying with this order, and yet licensing about 66 per cent of the frequencies granted to each applicant.

Universal still faces litigation brought by the R. C. A., and associated companies, which may interfere with its plans. Despite this, however, the company is pushing forward its project, Dr. Nathanson states.

Office locations, he declares, have been selected in places readily accessible to the business districts of the various cities. Customary corps of messengers are maintained, but in the interest of speed, it advocates the phoning of messages to the Universal office, and assessment on the telephone bill. The word "unigram" has been adopted to designate a Universal wireless message.

POSTURE, STYLES GO HAND IN HAND

Return of Curves Improves Women's Health, Says Physical Director

Madison—(P)—Styles and posture among women go hand in hand, according to Dr. Helen M. Denniston, director of corrective gymnastic work in the women's division of the University of Wisconsin department of physical education.

"A few years ago women wore shirtwaists and skirts with a tight belt pulled in at the back and down in the front," Dr. Denniston says. "Women then had the 'Greek band' attitude."

"Then came the flat back, flat chest and hip position that looked better in the skimpy one-piece dress. 'Now that curves are back in style, the chests are coming up and waists are curving in. How far they will go depends on the dress designers unless women will live their independence and freedom about which they boast.'"

Men have always been generally physically independent, she says, but they, too, are beginning to show style effects.

"The hand-in-the-pockets, round-shoulders, and chin-forward attitude of the chap who sits on the edge of a table and 'argufies' is as bad as that of the wearer of the too-tight belt, high collar, and toothpick-toed shoes of not so long ago."

To cultivate good posture, and one that will be least tiring while working, Dr. Denniston recommends keeping the back straight and making conscious use of the big muscle groups of the legs and hips.

"In sitting and working or playing, whether at the office desk, sewing machine, bridge table, factory bench, dining table, or kitchen sink, the back should be kept straight and the reaching forward accomplished by bending the hips," she says. "These active postures not only put the load on the stronger muscles, but give the organs in the chest and abdomen plenty of room to work."

The young woman who fastens her coat with buttons and allows her arms freedom will find her collar bone disappearing into a nicely rounded chest "that will look well in evening dress," Dr. Denniston comments. The woman who holds her chest up will not have to wear a tight-stiff corset to aid her figure, she says.

"The person who respects his body enough to give it working room, who walks with toes straight ahead, chest high, and arms swimming freely; who rests completely and dresses sensibly, need not worry about finding himself curved, bent, and stiff in his joints when he is old," Dr. Denniston holds.

Another Improvement at Pettibone's

Today Begins the Remodeling of the Large Front Windows to Conform to the Style of Those Facing Appleton Street

Last fall Pettibone's made a wonderful improvement in the appearance of the Store by installing four new windows in what used to be the blank wall on Appleton Street. Cold weather came too soon to permit a change in the front windows to harmonize with these finer, more modern ones. So it was postponed until the milder days of early spring.

Now workmen have hung their canvases over the front windows. During this short period of reconstruction they will not present their usual inviting appearance to passers-by. But we hope that the delightful displays of new frocks, new coats, new accessories that will be shown in the Appleton Street windows will allure our friends into turning the corner for a glimpse of what is smart for spring.

When the Store is in its holiday dress for Spring Opening, the new windows will be ready — beautiful in themselves, harmonizing with the others, and most important of all, filled with the gorgeous displays that make "window shopping" a thrilling affair to Appleton women.

THE FIRE INSURANCE AGENT

—A Useful Factor In Every Community

In no other business does agent mean so much as in the fire insurance business as transacted by the Stock Companies. More than a century ago these companies established relations with property owners through responsible local representatives.

The system has grown with the insurance needs of the country. Today hundreds of the best citizens of every state are in contact with the public as representatives of the Stock Companies.

Great Authority

In no other field is the relation between agent and principal more intimate. In no other activity is the agent entrusted with greater authority.

The Stock Fire Insurance agent has at his command all the facilities of the companies in engineering and research to make life and property safer. He has access to systematic hazard measurements; authentic information about proper building construction; the work of Underwriters' Laboratories in testing materials and devices, and other forms of service for the benefit of the insuring public.

Leaders in Civic Affairs

In every community the insurance agents are leaders in civic affairs. They have been faithful factors in the steady reductions that have been made in the average rate charged for fire insurance during the last twenty years.

The local agent is in position to know his client and his client's property. He is prepared to study the needs of each one—brings to each the special service required—and may save you money if you will permit him to use the many available facilities and will cooperate with him in improving your risk.
